ROUND-WORLD AIRMEN ARE 24 HOURS OVERDUE

Last Reported 3 Hours After Quitting Berlin Wednesday.

ARE NOW FAR BEHIND
POST-GATTY RECORD

Soviet Air Officials Spur Efforts to Find Pair; Inquire Along Line.

Moscow (Friday), July 8 (A.P.).—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, the American round-the-world fliers who started out so bravely by crossing the Atlantic in record time, were unreported and more than 24 hours overdue here this morning.

They had disappeared as completely as though their red, white and blue monoplane had gone sailing off into space.

The last heard of them was at 6:05 p. m. (E. S. T.) Wednesday, when they were sighted over Lake Wysztyl, near Hegelinge, on the German-Polish border. That was three hours and five minutes after they took off from Berlin with high hopes of greatly extending their margin over Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the round-the-world airmen whose record they set out to better.

Now they have fallen far behind Post and Gatty. Thursday midnight, Moscow time, they had been out of New York 60 hours and 59 minutes. Post and Gatty reached Moscow 34 hours and 34 minutes after leaving New York.

Inquiries Along the Line.

Soviet air officials did their utmost to locate the missing fliers. Inquiries were made along the line to Koenigsberg, Germany, but not a word of news resulted.

If they were forced to make a landing between Berlin and Moscow they might well have come down at a point where communications were so bad they could not possibly get word here. There are many fairly good landing places along that route. As the hours passed and no news came, Moscow airmen pointed out that the globe-girdlers might have decided to go on to Omsk, 1,600 miles to the east, where a new supply of gasoline awaited them.

They had enough fuel for that trip, but no reports of a landing came from Omsk. When they left Berlin they had gasoline only for 21 hours' flying. Thus it was apparent this morning that they had been forced to land somewhere.

Mrs. Mattern Confident.

If the fliers essayed a nonstop Berlin-to-Omsk hop they tried to make 8,000 miles at once. At the approximate speed of their Harbor Grace-Berlin leg, they would have been in Omsk yesterday forenoon.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Jimmie Mattern was confident today her husband was safe somewhere on the route of the "round-the-world trip" he undertook with Bennett Griffin, but she intends to keep him at home henceforth.

"If your Uncle Jimmie gets back this time, we're going to tie a ball and chain to him so he can't ever get away again," she told a niece. The flier's mother, Mrs. Caroline Mattern, was more concerned about his health than the mechanism of his plane.

Woman Pleads Guilty In Sellers Extortion

Los Angeles, July 7 (A.P.).—Accused of attempting to extort $2,000 from the wife of Rear Admiral David P. Sellers, of the United States Navy, Mrs. Elsie Anna Hansen, 20, pleaded guilty in Superior Court today and was placed on three years' probation, including two months in the County Jail.

Mrs. Hansen is the wife of Sellers' chauffeur. It was charged that Mrs. Hansen wrote a letter to the rear admiral's wife signed "a society lady," threatening her with death unless $2,000 was delivered to a designated spot.

Ketch With Crew of 6 Starts Across Ocean

Marblehead, Mass., July 7 (A.P.).—The German-built ketch Storbeck started tonight with its crew of young college men on a 3,000-mile voyage to the Azores, Gibraltar and Germany. The vessel hoisted sail at 5:15 p. m. (E. S. T.) and escorted by Eastern Yacht Club vessels and the Marblehead police boat headed out into the Atlantic. The youthful skipper is Charles A. Hardy, of Chatham. His crew is composed of William Crow, Rye, N. Y.; Albert Kerdell, Baltimore, Md.; Peter Barry, West Orange, N. J.; Standish Bachus, Detroit, Mich.; and William Drewry, South Orange, N. J.

Beer Mirage Cheers Senate Party Battle

Republicans Dare Democrats to Back Their Platform Plank by Voting for Ale, as Gallery Crowds Applaud.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A beer mirage hung over the Capitol yesterday, while Republicans and Democrats in the Senate quarreled over their party prohibition planks. Gleefully, a band of wet Republicans, seeking ammunition for the 1932 campaign, challenged the Democrats to make good on their Chicago repeal and beer plank. They dared the Democrats to vote for the Bingham "rider" to the home loan bank bill, legalizing 3.2 per cent beer.

The Democrats, charging that it was a plot to "embarrass" them, denied the Republicans to translate their own so-called "straddle" plank into legislation.

The Democrats demanded that President Hoover take steps to carry out the plank in the Republican platform; the Republicans made the same demand of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The galleries enjoyed it immensely, and on one occasion, after a burst of handclapping, had to be admonished by Vice President Curtis.

A vote on beer probably will come today. The Bingham "rider" to the home loan bank bill was reached just before the Senate adjourned at 7:15 last evening.

Unless the Republican vote themselves are wrong, the Senate, after a lot of squinting and explaining, will vote down the beer amendment. That is, it will divorce it from the home loan bank bill and send it to committee.

If this happens, the beer fight for this session will be over. For Speaker John N. Garner has no intention of letting the wet Republicans in the House embarrass his Democrats. Wet Republicans, like Senator William Bingham, of Connecticut, and Senator Olin Glenn, of Illinois, face hard contests for reelection this fall. The greatest obstacle in their path is the dripping wet repeal and beer plank of the Democrats. If they could only show that this plank was simply a lure for votes, and that the Democrats in Congress are by no

Solution to Personnel Tangle in Economy Act Sought Before Next Pay Day.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Two Federal agencies yesterday were bending every effort to unravel personnel intricacies of the national economy act before next Friday, first pay day of the new fiscal year, rolls around.

While Cabinet members of the Council of Personnel Administration struggled toward agreement on a uniform policy of applying furlough provisions, the Comptroller General's Office neared a ruling on accounting features of the plan.

The executive committee of the council, headed by Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, probably will report its findings to the full council this week. Early next week the council will submit recommendations to the President.

Issues still undecided are:

Whether the five-day week will be adopted throughout the Government in lieu of unevenly distributed leave, on the furlough plan.

Whether departments with sharply curtailed appropriations will discharge workers or furlough them for indefinite terms to stay within allotted funds.

Whether leave with pay accrued before July 1 may be taken in the present fiscal year.

Whether 8-1/2 per cent deductions will be made from each pay envelope, with workers permitted to take 2.

Bill to Refinance Farm Debt Delayed

Frazier Measure Recommended by Senate Ending Hope This Session.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday recommitted the Frazier bill to refinance the farm debt at 1 1/2 per cent interest. This ended hope for action at this session.

The vote on a motion by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, to send it to the banking committee was 33 to 18.

Connally said the measure, offered as an amendment to the home loan bank bill, needed earnest consideration by a committee dealing with important financial legislation. It had been reported to the Senate by the agriculture committee.

Catoctin Camp Hoover Once Frequented Sold

Frederick, Md., July 7 (A.P.).—The camp in the Catoctin Mountains, nine miles north of here, where President Hoover fished for trout during the first part of his term in the White House, was sold today to Kingston Brewster, Washington attorney.

Lawrence Richey, secretary to the President and owner of the land, sold to the attorney 801 acres of a tract of 1,329 acres through which Fishing Creek, a mountain stream, flows. He kept title to the remainder.

$175,000,000 Measure For Agriculture Signed

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday signed the $175,000,000 Agriculture Department appropriation bill.

Its provisions include $1,000,000 for Federal participation in the Chicago Century of Progress exposition.

New Revolt Met by Decree of Martial Law; Leader Reported Killed.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Several persons were killed and others wounded in a revolutionary outbreak by Communist and Apurista party forces at Trujillo, Puerto Chicama and Paljan, the government announced tonight in clamping down country-wide martial law. Lima was quiet tonight.

The official communiqué said that Apuristas attacked civil guards at Puerto Chicama, killing one guard and wounding another. Two civil guards were said to have been killed when the guards' station at Paljan was attacked.

The communiqué said that groups of Communists carrying red flags, paraded through a section of Trujillo in the State of Libertad, and seized a portion of the city after a clash with a small force of artillerymen. Civil guards, police and artillerymen were allied in opposing the rebels, it was said. The Communist leader, Barreto, was reported killed.

Reports from Chiclayo, Cajamarca and Piura indicated there was no trouble in those towns.

Cernak Is Reported To Be Seriously Ill

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Mayor Anton J. Cernak was reported unofficially tonight to be in a serious condition at St. Anthony de Padua Hospital, where he was taken yesterday.

Close friends of the mayor denied his condition was dangerous and stated he merely needed a rest, but one of his secretaries was denied admittance to his room and two policemen guarded the door. One report was that the mayor's condition was so critical that Democratic leaders were considering the advisability of electing a mayor pro tem until he recovered.

Former Gov. C. Tobey, Dry, Seeks House Seat

Concord, N. H., July 7 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Charles W. Tobey today announced he will seek the Republican nomination for Congress in the second New Hampshire District. His candidacy may mean a contest with Representative Edward H. Wason, who has occupied the seat since 1914.

Tobey has been a leader of prohibition forces in the State.

Mob Attacks Man In Frostburg, Md.

Cumberland, Md., July 7 (A.P.).—A 220-pound Negro giant was brought to the Allegheny County Jail here today after police at Frostburg, Md., rescued him from a mob, which gathered when he attacked and cut a number of persons with a butcher knife.

Police said part of the mob was composed of delegates to the Maryland State Farmers' convention, which is in session in Frostburg.

The Negro, Dusty Waters, became infuriated when taunted by the visiting farmers and dashed down the main street of Frostburg slashing at people he passed. At least five were cut, none seriously. The crowd gathered quickly and disarmed Waters. The Negro's clothing was almost torn from his body before he was rescued.

French Naval Craft Goes to Bottom Suddenly in Maneuvers.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Recent developments may keep Congress in session for the rest of the summer and throw open the legislative doors to many and varied measures on which the doors had been closed under pressure of a prospective early adjournment.

The season may prove to be in its dying days, but that both Republican and Democratic leaders of the House foresee at least a few more hectic clashes is indicated by the urgent commands to return to the Capitol they have sent to their absent followers who are back home attending to the job of getting themselves re-elected. Something like a half hundred Democrats have left the city to go to work in their home districts. The Republicans say about a score of their members are absent.

Both sides want their full strength here for the remaining tests of strength, the first important one of which will come on the unemployment relief bill. This measure is expected to be sent to President Hoover next week. The President is expected to veto it forthwith and tell Congress what he has done.

Effort will be made to override the President's veto, but Democratic leaders who are determined on that course do not see where they are going to get enough votes to override the promised veto. It has been suggested that it might be possible to take the bill back and rename it, but there are several parliamentary and legal objections to that procedure. Once the bill has been vetoed and efforts to pass it over the veto have failed, the measure is dead.

That would leave no relief bill and make it necessary for both House and Senate to work out and enact a new relief measure on which both Houses and the President could agree. This will take time.

Meantime, various groups will be working hard to have this or that measure brought to a vote. Among these, of course, are those seeking to have the Volstead act modified

LAUSANNE GOAL SEEMS SURE AS FRANCE AND BRITAIN AGREE ON PREAMBLE

Balance of His Disarmament Program Is Approved by Nation.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Great Britain today officially defined her attitude toward President Hoover's proposals to cut arms one-third. She declared herself in general accord, but drew the line at her naval program.

In a paper read before the House of Commons by Stanley Baldwin, acting prime minister, the government asserted Britain's far-drawn interest in the League of Nations and its desire to reduce the number of naval arms beyond a certain point.

"But if there is a limit to numerical reduction, it is still possible, and highly desirable, to secure by other means a large diminution in naval armaments," Mr. Baldwin said.

The government lined up with Mr. Hoover by opposing air bombing, with reservations, and by pointing out that the British standards of land disarmament already more than cover the American aims.

The army has been cut from 259,000 in 1913 to 207,000 at present, Mr. Baldwin said.

DAUGHTER OF McADOO Hurt in Taxi Mishap

Mrs. Bryce Claggett, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, was injured last night when thrown violently against the side of a taxi as it came to a sudden stop near Union Station.

Mrs. Claggett was a passenger in the cab of George A. Martin, 115 E. street northwest. Martin told police he was forced to stop his cab suddenly to avoid crashing into a vehicle that had halted in front of him. Mrs. Claggett struck her head against a glass partition in the cab and suffered severe lacerations and bruises. She was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Guardian Believes Reynolds Shot Self; Sheriff Dubious

Different Version of Shooting Says Wife, Former Libby Holman, in Same Room With Husband at Time; Uncle Awaits Facts in Inquiry.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 7 (A.P.).

R. E. Lanster, guardian of Smith Reynolds, said tonight there was no reason to doubt that the death from a pistol wound of the young heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune was suicide.

"From all the evidence in the case," Mr. Lanster said, "there is every reason to believe Smith committed suicide."

This statement was the first direct word from any member of the family since the 20-year-old aviation enthusiast fell mortally wounded on a sleeping porch of his paternal home, Reynolds, early yesterday.

W. N. Reynolds, uncle of the dead youth and a joint guardian with Lanster, arrived late today from his home in Cleveland.

He refused to express an opinion "until I know more about it." He said he had talked to the youth's two sisters, Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, both of New York.

"They feel like it was suicide, but they do not know," he said.

An official finding of suicide had been reported by Coroner W. N. Dalton, but Sheriff Transou Scott had indicated he desired to question Reynolds' widow, the former Libby Holman, Broadway singer, before he would up his investigation.

A different version of the tragedy from that originally given was published today by the Winston-Salem Sentinel. The paper says it learned from "high authority" that Mrs. Reynolds and her husband were lying across a bed on the sleeping porch when the latter was shot.

Democrats and Republicans Call Members Back From Relection Tasks as Fights Over Unemployment Relief Impend.

PARAGUAY QUILTS PARLEY HERE OVER CHACO REGION

Asuncion, Paraguay, July 7 (A.P.).—The government announced today it was quitting the negotiations at Washington over the disputed Chaco region on account of "an unjustified Bolivian attack upon Paraguayan troops."

The communiqué said details of the reported attack were being awaited, other reports saying that Bolivian cavalry had expelled Paraguayan infantrymen from one of Paraguay's outposts in Chaco.

AIR CADETS BEAR BATTLE SCARS IN SURPRISE FRAY

Miami, Fla., July 7 (A.P.).—Cadets at the Navy Reserve flying base at Opa-locka, came out second best in an unexpected air attack by 10,000 or more fliers. As a result of the fray, many of the cadets have visible signs of combat on their faces and hands.

The invaders were wild bees in a gigantic swarm, apparently attracted to the base by the drone of plane engines. As a counter attack, the cadets sought to entice the bees into hives with the hope of getting them to produce honey.

SENATE CONFIRMS BROSSARD NAMING

(Associated Press.)

The renomination of Edgar B. Brossard, of Utah, to the Tariff Commission was confirmed yesterday by the Senate over the opposition of Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado.

Brossard was confirmed without a record vote immediately after the Senate rejected, 31 to 23, a motion by Costigan to recommit the nomination to the finance committee. Attacking the renomination of Brossard, Senator Costigan told the Senate he had "for years appeared to be representative of more or less hidden forces."

Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, defended Brossard, saying: "Dr. Brossard is well qualified for his place. The very line of his education fits him for his place."

HOUSE ADOPTS RELIEF REPORT BY 202 TO 157

Body Votes to Sustain Demand of Garner to Aid Individuals.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Vice presidential politics made a field day yesterday in the air-conditioned House of Representatives and when Speaker John N. Garner barked his gavel for adjournment at 2:30 p. m. the laurels of victory rested triumphantly on the brow of the Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency.

By a vote of 202 to 157 the House adopted the conference report on the $2,100,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief bill, sustaining Speaker Garner in his demand that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation broaden its base sufficiently to handle loans to individuals.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where it may be modified along the lines accepted by all save Speaker Garner at this week's compromise conference at the White House, or passed promptly and sent up Pennsylvania avenue to a certain veto.

Robinson Calls Caucus.

Democratic Leader Robinson has called a meeting of the Senate minority for this morning to discuss the organization's stand on the measure. Whatever the outcome of this meeting, Senate leaders have given assurance that the bill will be placed before the Senate promptly. Should the Democratic caucus determine to stall the party's vice presidential candidate in his first campaign maneuver, the conference report could be approved this afternoon and the bill vetoed before nightfall.

Then, since Republicans and Democrats alike are agreed there should be constructive relief legislation in the present session of Congress, both Houses would be able to start all over again.

Speaker Garner was able to recognize Representative Crisp, of Georgia, to begin the debate on the conference report, but abandoned the chair during the bulk of the campaign oratory on "starvation," "distress," "national ruin," and returned to the chamber only in time to acknowledge the acclaim of his Democratic colleagues as the tally clerk announced the result of the roll call.

Garner Reaffirms Principles.

Although he did not take part in the debate, Mr. Garner, in a conference with newsmen, reaffirmed allegiance to the principles enunciated Wednesday in his speech on the floor.

"There are 4,000 banks who have received benefits from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation who oppose this bill," Mr. Garner told the press.

BOHN DENIES SUM PAID TO KIDNAPERS

Doubts If His Son Could Identify Gang Which Held Him Captive.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7 (A.P.).—G. C. Bohn, wealthy manufacturer, today said no ransom had been paid for the release of his son, Haskell, 20. Bohn said he believed the boy was freed last night by the kidnappers because they became frightened.

The elder Bohn doubted whether his son could identify any of the three or four men who held him captive for a week in a basement on the outskirts of Minneapolis. Earlier, M. F. Kinkaid, county attorney, said young Bohn was positive that he could recognize the abductors.

Police accepted the story of young Bohn, who walked into a farm house near Minneapolis last night and said he had just been freed.

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Irving Ritz, New York gangster, was in the custody of police today for an hour in the false belief he was wanted by the New York authorities in connection with a murder there.

New York authorities said they questioned Ritz last night and asked that he be let go.

NORTH DAKOTA WILL VOTE ON ITS DRY LAW REPEAL

Bismarck, N. Dak., July 7 (A.P.).—North Dakota citizens will vote on repeal of the State prohibition laws at the November general election.

Secretary of State Robert Byrne today accepted petitions initiating a referendum on a proposed constitutional amendment for repeal.

McADOO SEES GARNER AND HIRAM JOHNSON

His Return to Capital Is to Give Added Impetus to Democratic Drive.

(Associated Press.) William Gibbs McAdoo returned to the Capital yesterday to give added interest and impetus to the Democratic presidential campaign so dramatically started by Franklin D. Roosevelt in Chicago last week.

The war-time Secretary of the Treasury held two conferences of particular interest, one with the Democratic vice presidential nominee, Speaker Garner, and the other with Hiram Johnson, Republican senator from California.

Johnson has been a constant critic of the Hoover administration and has publicly approved the Roosevelt acceptance speech.

The conference with Garner was a political one. Emerging from McAdoo said Garner would speak in California, indicating that the Speaker's campaign will be an extensive one.

Platform Discussed.

The talk with Johnson took place in the company of Senators Harrison, Mississippi, and Cohen, of Georgia. All four said afterward the call was "purely a social one," but all added that the Democratic convention and platform had been discussed.

Mr. McAdoo expressed the belief that the Democrats will carry California, Mr. Hoover's home State, in the November election. Mr. McAdoo is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate in California.

Speaker Garner's position in his controversy with President Hoover over the relief bill he approved, saying Mr. McAdoo was right in demanding that private industry and individuals should have access to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

He scouted the idea that such a procedure would endanger the credit of the Government.

Placed at Smith's Move.

Talking to newspapermen at the Capitol, McAdoo expressed pleasure over Alfred E. Smith's statement he would support the Democratic party. He said reports to the contrary had been started by Republicans "for propaganda purposes."

He added that his action in swinging the California vote to Roosevelt in the Chicago convention, an action which in turn started the decisive swing to the New Yorker, had not been taken for revenge on Smith for delecting the 1924 convention when McAdoo was a leading candidate.

He smilingly called attention to the fact that Roosevelt led the fight for Smith in 1924.

Hoover Talks With Aids.

At the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue President Hoover talked over "the general political situation" with two of his advisers, James A. Garfield, who headed the platform committee at the Republican convention, and former Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who is publicity director of the Republican campaign.

Garfield said he expected to campaign extensively in support of the Chicago convention, to take the Republican platform submission plank. He said the Republican party should stand firm on prohibition until the proposed amendment had been submitted and accepted by the people of the country.

Walsh Charges Hoover Sponsored Private Aid

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Senator Walsh, Montana, Democrat, tonight charged President Hoover was the original sponsor of the provision in the Garner-Wagner relief bill, passed today by the House, which authorizes direct loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to private companies and individuals.

The senator, en route to his Montana home, expressed astonishment that the President had indicated his intention to take relief measure because of the private loan provision.

St. Louis G. O. P. Group Urges Legalizing of Beer

St. Louis, July 7 (A.P.).—A telegram urging Congress to amend the Volstead act immediately to permit the reopening of breweries was sent to Missouri's four Republican members in Congress today by the St. Louis Republican City Committee.

The resolution proposing the measure, was introduced by Park Commissioner Fred W. Pape, chairman, who said the purpose was not so much to provide a beverage as to create employment.

CONGRESS MAY STAY REST OF SUMMER

Immediately to permit manufacture and sale of beer of some greater potency than less than one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content. There is doubt that the beer amendment will get through or come to another vote in the House if Congress adjourns soon. If the session is dragged along the situation will not hold.

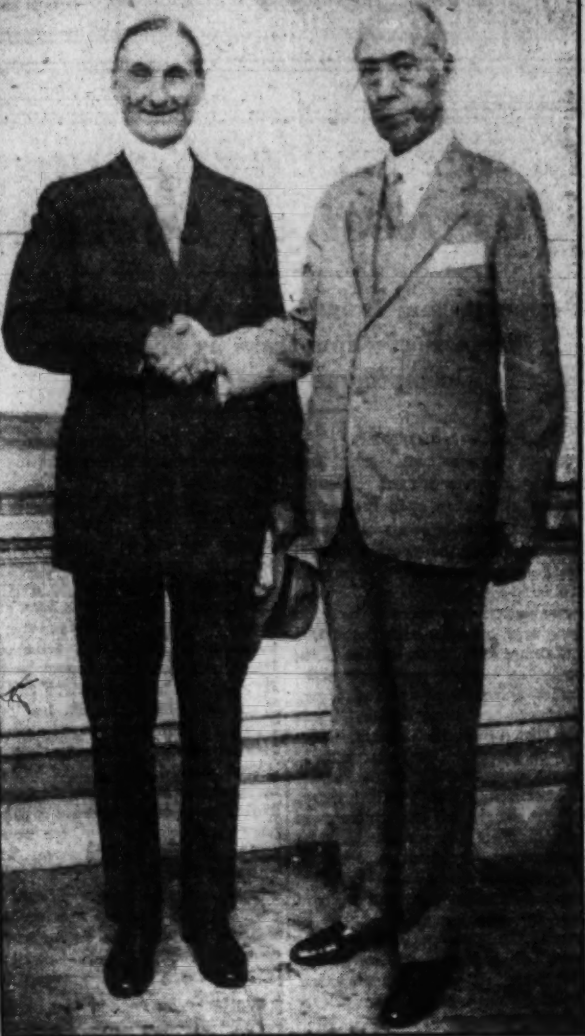

Both Republican and Democratic leaders admit privately that if the session continues another two weeks—which does not now seem entirely unlikely—there will be a renewed drive for consideration of many other measures. Those seeking enactment of farm relief legislation will find a number in sympathy with them who have been willing to let the question slide because of the urge to adjourn. Advocates of grasshopper relief are active and will continue so. There will be a renewal of efforts to iron out some of the inequalities and injustices and false economies contained in the so-called economy program for the Government. The War Department appropriation bill still is deadlocked in conference although there are reports that some of the House conferees are not so determined as they were a few days ago.

Foreign debts are lurking in the background. The migration grant of Europe last year expires this month, although payments are not due immediately. The World Court is another matter remaining to be passed on.

There are, in short, quite a few matters which could engage the warm attention of Congress for quite a while, despite the general idea that it has cleaned off the legislative slate.

If we stay here another two weeks the Lord only knows what will happen," was the way one of the leaders who is anxious for adjournment disgustedly summed up the situation yesterday.

CALIFORNIA RIVALS MEET

William Gibbs McAdoo (left) and Senator Samuel Shortridge, of California, photographed here yesterday. Just before the Democratic convention met Mr. McAdoo and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith were photographed in a similar pose. Mr. McAdoo aspires to occupy the Senate seat now held by Mr. Shortridge.

GARFIELD TO SPEAK UPSHAW NOMINATED OFTEN IN CAMPAIGN AT DRY CONVENTION

Says Drys Will Rally Behind Platform of Republicans; Talks With Hoover.

(Associated Press.) James R. Garfield, chairman of the resolutions committee at the Chicago Republican convention, told newspapermen yesterday he would take an active part in the coming campaign, speaking often in support of the Republican prohibition submission plank.

During a stop in the Capital, Garfield, a close adviser of President Hoover's, called at the White House where, he said, he talked over "the general political situation" with Mr. Hoover.

Amplifying his views upon the Republican proposal to submit a new amendment to the people, which he helped to frame after conferences with the President, Garfield said he considered the plank absolutely opposed to any redefinition of the alcoholic content of beer and light wine toward the direction of modification.

He said he felt the Republican party was pledged to stand fast on the prohibition question until the proposed amendment had been submitted to and acted upon by the people.

Garfield said he felt the dry forces of the country would gather behind the Republican platform in preference to the straight repeal issue put forward by the Democrats.

2 UNITS RUSH WORK ON FURLOUGH PLANS

Whether money saved from salaries under the furlough plan must be turned back into the Treasury or may be used instead to keep employes in their jobs.

The Council of Personnel Administration, comprising department heads and other ranking officials, was formed last year by the President to improve personnel administration.

The original draft of its furlough policy was said to be based for executive committee action today.

All Army officers now on leave in their corps areas yesterday were placed in temporary service by the War Department, pending the Committee's interpretation of that phase of the economy bill suspending all leave with pay. It was estimated that between 1,500 and 2,000 Army officers now on leave will be affected.

The Navy Department announced that all fifteen-day training cruises for Naval Reserve are canceled during the current year, due to lack of funds. The order affects 1,200 officers and 8,400 enlisted men of the Naval Reserves.

Sentiment against a rigid five-day work application of the furlough plan increased yesterday among Federal employes. The following resolution was adopted by the District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes Unions:

"That the furlough pay be taken out of the salaries on a monthly or semi-monthly basis and that the furlough leave be taken at the option of the employes."

(Associated Press.)

Creation of a joint congressional committee to seek ways of cutting Federal expenses 25 per cent was proposed yesterday in a resolution introduced by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee.

The committee would report its suggestions to Congress next December.

It would be empowered to recommend what bureaus and agencies should be abolished or consolidated and asked to submit in its report an accounting of economies effected during the current fiscal year.

ROOSEVELT TO STAY OUT OF BEER FIGHT TO BACK ROOSEVELT

Feels Commitment by Him Would Be Usurpation of Authority.

Albany, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—Members of Congress, clamoring for immediate action to restore beer through the modification of the Volstead act, will look in vain for assistance from Gov. Roosevelt.

A word made clear by those in a position to know that the New York executive considered an effort on his part to influence congressional action would be an interference not warranted by his designation as the Democratic choice for the Presidency.

The governor was represented as believing it is within the power of Congress to change the dry act, and that any commitment by him would be a usurpation of authority not within his province. He declared in his acceptance speech and in subsequent utterances that he stood on the declarations of the platform adopted at Chicago.

Tonight Albany gave its official welcome to the Democratic nominee. The event was sponsored by the Democratic county organization directed by Ed and Dan O'Connell, who before and during the convention consistently opposed his nomination. The O'Connell organization was allied with Tammany Hall in support of former Gov. Smith.

An old-fashioned torch light parade reminiscent of the days of Tilden and Cleveland, was arranged. The line of march was terminated at the executive mansion when Mayor John P. Koch, Thacher, voicing the sentiments of the crowd.

Responding to Mayor Thacher's remarks, Gov. Roosevelt mentioned the name of former Gov. Smith in recounting events at the San Francisco convention. Smith's name brought a loud cheer from the crowd.

At the Chicago convention, he said, "Anchors Aweigh," in becoming a convention song, symbolized this year's Democratic drive, adding "the ship of Democracy is weighing her anchors for a four months' cruise that will lead to the port of victory."

Organization leaders estimated 10,000 persons were in the parade.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Samuel Seabury let it be known today that, despite his intention to take a European trip, he will not depart until there are further developments in the removal case against Mayor Walker now before Gov. Roosevelt.

Walker Denies Agreeing To Quit for Senate Race

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Mayor Walker denied today that he had agreed to resign on the assurance of being given the nomination for the United States Senate.

There had been a rumor to this effect circulating in the financial district.

BEER MIRAGE OVER CAPITOL CHEERS SENATE PARTY FIGHT

means all in favor of it—if they could only do that—they would have a sinking point back home this summer.

They emerged from yesterday's debate, these wet Republicans, feeling more than happy. Not only had the Democratic leader, Senator Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, talked against the Bingham amendment, but even Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, the wettest Democrat of them all, had joined in the fight against it.

Argument by Tydings.

Mr. Tydings argued that a vote on the Bingham rider would not be a true test, inasmuch as some of those who favor beer are opposed to the home loan bank bill and vice versa. It was he who charged that Mr. Bingham was simply trying to embarrass the Democrats.

But Senator Carter Glass, fiery Democrat, of Virginia, who out in Chicago referred to the Democratic repeal and beer plank as a "barroom plank," did not rest his opposition on any arguments such as were advanced by Mr. Tydings.

"If the purpose of the senator from Connecticut," Mr. Glass "was to embarrass Democrats upon this question, I want to say that he can not embarrass me."

"I feel that the bath and obligation here as one to the State of Virginia, and it can not be touched by any frenzied local assembly anywhere on earth."

"I am going to vote as my judgment and conscience dictate and not as any party platform may undertake to determine. But that is not my question."

Senator Glass brought up a question that apparently is to be asked many times before a beer bill gets on the statute books, and that is, "What constitutes an intoxicating beer?"

Senator Bingham, who is a prof. Francis B. Benedict, of the Carnegie Institution, as saying that, in the ordinary sense of the word, beer, as it is used in Germany, is not intoxicating. But that did not satisfy the late Glass.

Glass Questions Reply.

"He tells us," said Mr. Glass, "that the beer drunk in Germany does not disable a man, does not put him in that state of intoxication where he is unable to walk or talk."

"Nobody here knows whether the beer proposed by the senator is that kind or not."

"If it makes a man so tipsy that he can merely reel but can not walk, I am against it. If it makes a man so tipsy that he may ejaculate but can not speak intelligently, I am against it."

Mr. Glass recalled that Congress appropriated $500,000 for the Wickersham Commission to determine the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage. But the commission, he said, ignored the mandate of Congress and wasted a half million dollars.

"Until some authorized commission," said Mr. Glass, "after a careful investigation, determines what is the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage, I deny the right of any senator to undertake to say that I challenge my party platform because I do not vote for what he wants done."

At this point Mr. Glass asked Mr. Bingham why he did not make the home loan bill more "absurd" by offering the Republican prohibition plank as a rider.

"The reason is," said Mr. Bingham frankly, "that I do not like the Republican plank and I do like the Democratic plank."

"Will the senator vote the Democratic ticket on election day?" asked the Virginian.

"Certainly not," replied Senator Bingham.

Mrs. C. H. Sabin, Once G. O. P. Leader, Announces Decision.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—An organization of "more than 1,000,000 women of both political parties," banded together in a war on the eighteenth amendment, was placed behind the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt today by its executive committee.

Announcement of the decision was made by Mrs. C. H. Sabin, who was self once a Republican leader, at the conclusion of a 7-hour meeting of the executive committee of the women's organization for national prohibition reform. Mrs. Sabin is national chairman.

"We urge," said a formal resolution, "members of this organization because they are committed to the cause of repeal, whether they be Republicans or whether they be Democrats, to give their support to the nominee on that party which favors the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Gathering in the quiet of a Long Island estate, 50 women, 29 of whom were described as Republicans, debated the question of their position in the forthcoming campaign behind the closed library doors of the home of Mrs. Edward Small Moore, a committeewoman.

Those attending represented 23 States and proxies were presented from all the other 19 States in which the organization has units, save Oklahoma. The adoption of the resolution was announced as unanimous. Under a resolution adopted at the women's last national convention ratification by State branches is not necessary.

Senator Smith, Dry, To Support Platform

Manning, S. C., July 7 (A.P.).—The assertion "I stand squarely behind the Democratic national platform," was made here today by United States Senator E. D. Smith, campaigning for re-nomination against three opponents.

Smith has consistently supported dry measures in his 24 years in the Senate. At the opening of the present campaign, however, he said although politically dry, he would support a plank bill had been described by the national party adopted on prohibition.

James Roosevelt Gets Young Democratic Post

Raleigh, N. C., July 7 (A.P.).—James Roosevelt, 25, of Cambridge, Mass., son of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for President, has been named national treasurer of the Young Democratic Clubs of America. Tyre O. Taylor, of Raleigh, N. C., the president, announced here today.

Kenneth Grahame, 72, British Author, Dead

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Kenneth Grahame, noted British author, died suddenly yesterday at Pangbourne, on the Thames, aged 72.

Kenneth Grahame was born in Edinburgh in 1858. He was the author of "The Golden Age," "The Wind in the Willows," "Pagan Papers" and "Dream Days."

Stepmother and Mother Together.

Los Angeles, July 7 (A.P.).—The Examiner says Claire Adams, former motion picture actress, is living in a Beverly Hills home with her father, her mother and her stepmother. Mutual love of music, said the story, brought daughter, father, his first wife and his present wife together in perfect amity under the same roof.

600 RELIEF WORKERS
GATHER HERE TODAY40 Speakers to Lead Study of Local, State and Federal Cooperation.

More than 600 persons engaged in unemployment relief work in the South Atlantic States will meet here today and tomorrow in a conference on effective measures on unemployment relief, under the auspices of the Department of Sociology of George Washington University.

Those attending will include officials of State and local relief departments, professional social workers, civic and volunteer workers.

Among the 40 speakers listed in the program are Fred C. Croton, assistant director of the President's organization on unemployment relief; Katherine F. Lennock, assistant chief of the Children's Bureau; Arthur Dunham, of the Family Welfare Association of America; and Frank Kane, of the American Association of Public Welfare Officers.

In connection with a session devoted to the subject of mobility as an effect of the crisis in employment, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, will discuss the problem of the bonus marchers.

The program of the conference is practical in aspect, looking toward the development of improved methods to be used in meeting the situation next winter. Such topics will be discussed as Federal cooperation, State aid in improving local programs and methods used to raise money.

Hosiery Workers Ask
Passage of Relief Bill

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers today decided that a telegram be sent to President Hoover demanding "immediate action on the relief bill now before Congress," which the President threatens to veto.

Another telegram was ordered sent to Congress urging that the bill be passed over the presidential veto if necessary. The bill, while declared inadequate, is the only means of relief.

10 More Strike Families
Evicted in Mills Area

Spartanburg, S. C., July 7 (A.P.).—Eviction of the families of ten strikers went forward without disturbance today in the Arcadia Mills village, bringing the total number of evictions to 33 families. The eviction warrants, issued by Magistrate John Lancaster, were served by constables yesterday upon twelve families.

The other families moved voluntarily. Eviction proceedings tonight had been virtually completed.

HOUSE ADOPTS CONFERENCE
REPORT ON RELIEF MEASURE

boys. "They don't want competition, and they won't lose money."

Although he has exhibited a strong disinclination since the Chicago convention made him a National Figure, to engage in personalities in his public utterances, the Speaker was willing yesterday to go so far as to allow that the statement issued by President Hoover on Wednesday evening, outlining his objections to the Garner proposal, "had all the earmarks of a product of Secretary Mills."

McAdoo Lauds Stand.

The only other nationally prominent Democrat who took part in the debate outside of the House chamber yesterday was William Gibbs McAdoo, of California, former Secretary of the Treasury, whose militant leadership in the Chicago convention made Mr. Garner the party's vice presidential nominee.

"I think the Speaker is absolutely right in the position he has taken," Mr. McAdoo told newspapermen during a visit to the Capitol. "It is absolutely indefensible to give all this relief to special interests and not to all the people."

In concluding his remarks, Mr. McAdoo said:

Wood Is Forgotten Man.

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, the chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, was the forgotten man of the floor melee. When adding the year and days, the tally reached a gleam to include Mr. Wood's vote against the conference report. An official correction in the Record tally, however, soon took all the humor out of that comedy, and the tiresome wrangle ended with practically nobody forgotten—save possibly the unemployed.

Representative Crisp sounded the keynote of the Democratic debate in his opening remarks.

"People in this country will not and shall not be permitted to starve," he shouted dramatically.

With that, everybody apparently agreed, for there was no further discussion of the point.

Big Banks Given Aid.

Representative Sabath, of Illinois, explained he felt obligated to vote with his Democratic colleagues because in his new bill the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had accomplished to date was to help "the big banks to crucify the small banks."

Representative Britten said he could not cast his Republican vote with the Democrats because Chicago would not be able to borrow from the R. F. C. to replenish her bankrupt municipal treasury.

"You are wrong in that statement," Mr. Sabath corrected vehemently from the Democratic side. But Britten voted against the Garner plan.

BONUS VETERAN BUILDS HOME

This veteran has not been idle while waiting at the B. E. F. camp in the hope Congress would pass the bonus bill. Above he is shown putting final touches on his little hand-constructed home. His wife and three children are seen in the yard.

the men for more demonstrations, he went to the camp and said: "In six weeks of conservative leadership we have accomplished more than could be done in 25 years of agitation." The conservative elements in the Oregon outfit are planning another election to reelect Taylor as their head. The present leadership is not recognized by national headquarters.

In a communication to his men Waters asked them not to participate in the radical parade today. He also suggested that the veterans should not congregate along the line of march, pointing out to them that the radical parade is to be preceded and followed by details of police "which has never been necessary in a B. E. F. demonstration."

The bill for the transportation fund passed both houses of Congress with little debate. The money is to be advanced for railroad fare and subsistence at the rate of 75 cents per day, and is to be handled by the Veterans' Administration. The money will be advanced as a loan, without interest, on their bonus certificates, and if not paid will be deducted from the face value of the certificates.

Doubts Use of Loan.

Waters, commenting on the passage of the bill, said: "I will not oppose any man taking advantage of such a loan, but I don't think many will go. To go home won't solve their problems. The money will be available to them until a week from today."

Waters and a few of his aids today will seek an audience with Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner to urge enactment of the bonus bill.

Doubts Use of Loan.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia squeezed into the last hour of the debate with the grave observation: "I am greatly concerned over the economic condition of our country." He voted for the Garner plan.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, was incensed over President Hoover's statement that the adoption of the Garner plan would make the Reconstruction Finance Corporation the "most gigantic banking and pawnbroking business in all history."

That, roared Mr. Rainey with semi-apologetic gestures, was a misstatement "unparalleled in the history of press releases from the White House."

Mr. Rainey's thrust disposed of that angle of the dispute.

Says Fight Lacks Dignity.

Mr. Rainey said he would not go so far as to call President Hoover a knave, but he did feel that the Chief Executive was "not fighting the fight" with dignity.

He next alluded to Senator Couzens' salaries paid to railroad presidents whose corporations had received loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation concluding, "These are the type of men the President wants to help!"

Representative Chandon, of Illinois, in speaking against the Garner plan, warned the House that enactment of the conference bill would undermine the credit of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and wipe out much of the effective work already accomplished by that organization in the direction of checking panicky liquidation of sound assets.

Oppose Unbalancing Budget.

Representative Snell, of New York, the minority leader, closed the debate for the Republican side.

"We stand for adequate relief where it is needed," he said. "But we are opposed to unbalancing the budget after the entire effort of this session has been directed to that objective."

Following is a list of 35 Republicans who voted with the Democrats to sustain the Garner plan:

Adkins, of Illinois; Bacharach, of New Jersey; Barbour, of California; Boleau, of Wisconsin; Butler, of Oregon; Campbell, of Iowa; Campbell, of Pennsylvania; Carter, of Wyoming; Christgau, of Minnesota; Dowell, of Iowa; Ek, of Pennsylvania; Estep, of Pennsylvania; Gilchrist, of Iowa; Hartley, of New Jersey; Horr, of Washington; James, of Michigan; Kading, of Wisconsin; Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Knutson, of Minnesota; LaGuardia, of New York; Maas, of Minnesota; Perkins, of New Jersey; Person, of Michigan; Pittenger, of Minnesota; Schaffer, of Wisconsin; Schneider, of Wisconsin; Seger, of New Jersey; Selvig, of Minnesota; Sinclair, of North Dakota; Sullivan, of Pennsylvania; Swing, of California; Taylor, of Tennessee; Welch, of California; Withrow, of Wisconsin; and Wolverson, of New Jersey.

Two Democrats voted with the Republicans against the conference report. They were Morehead, of Nebraska, and Reilly, of Wisconsin.

HURLEY CITES EVILS
IN ARMY BILL DELAYDeadlocked Conference Told of Hardships Resulting From Law Failure.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley discussed with Senate conferees on the deadlocked War Department appropriation bill yesterday the results of a failure to enact the bill at this session.

Secretary Hurley and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, appeared before another session with the House conferees had failed to break the deadlock over retirement of 2,000 officers.

They said the department would have "great difficulty" continuing its river and harbor functions without enactment of a bill, but that it could continue to operate its military activities.

There is authority under present law, they said, for the department to make contracts for its military supplies which could be paid from a deficiency appropriation at the next session.

The Army appropriation bill is now the only one of the annual supply measures that has not been passed. The House has insisted upon retirement of 2,000 of the 12,000 officers, and the Senate has refused to agree.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 7 (U.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, the elder, celebrates his ninety-third birthday tomorrow, convinced that prosperity will come again.

"These are days when many are discouraged," he declared. "In the ninety-three years of my life, depression has come and gone. Prosperity has always returned, and will again."

HOOVER NAVY SLASH
OPPOSED BY BRITAIN

Baldwin said. He emphasized the proposals he made were not to be regarded as a declaration of isolated action, but as a contribution to world disarmament. In general, the paper was an adaptation of the Hoover program to Britain's established policy of defense.

"The government associate themselves with President Hoover's proposals to participate in the disarmament problem, and desire to contribute all they can to secure their practical application," the acting prime minister said.

The paper set forth the following naval program:

"The Government of the United Kingdom puts forward for immediate adoption by international agreement this set of proposals relating to the navies of the world:

1. "The maximum size of any future capital ship to 22,000 tons, and the maximum caliber of the guns carried to 11 inches (from 35,000 tons and 16-inch guns).
2. Reduce the maximum size of cruisers hereafter constructed to 7,000 tons and the maximum caliber of guns to 6.1 inches (from 10,000 tons and 8-inch guns).
3. If international agreement on point 2 can not be obtained, the government of the United Kingdom will still urge that the maximum size of capital ships should be reduced to 25,000 tons and their guns to 12 inches as a maximum.
4. Reduce maxima for aircraft carriers to 22,000 tons with 6.1-inch guns (these carriers have been in the capital ship class).
5. Abolish submarines.
6. Reduce destroyer tonnage by approximately one-third, this depending on abolition of submarines.
7. If submarines can not be abolished, fix their maximum surface displacement at 200 tons, with strict limitation of both total tonnage and number of units."

Air Plan Suggested.

The air program included these points:

1. Abolition of all aerial bombing, within limits to be laid down by an international convention, which might allow bombing of military points.
2. Prohibition of attacks on civilians by air.
3. Strict limitation of the unladen weight of all military and naval aircraft, with the exception of troop carriers and flying boats.
4. Numerical restrictions on all military aircraft.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 7 (A.P.).—British authorities discreetly launched a move today to reduce the five-power naval conference aimed at further reductions of sea forces.

The suggestion for this new parity, in which the United States, Britain, Japan, France and Italy would be asked to participate, came simultaneously with the announcement at London of the British government's counterproposal to President Hoover's plan to reduce guns one-third.

Those counter-proposals aroused strong criticism from American naval experts on duty with the United States delegation to the world disarmament conference.

The British program, one of these critics said, was merely a renewal of a ten-year-old controversy in which the British have "sought by reducing the size of our ships to keep our Navy in home waters."

The suggestion of another five-power naval conference was advanced by a high British authority in an anonymous press interview. He proposed that it be held in the interval before the world disarmament conference resumes its activities in the fall. Spoken of other Nations withheld comment.

(Associated Press.)

A carefully worded statement from Secretary Rimson yesterday on the Baldwin paper said it indicated the momentum given the Geneva conference since President Hoover's proposals.

The Secretary of State said he could form no opinion on the details of the British proposal until he had received them all and commented they seemed to be a suggestion by England of the "ideal toward which construction should tend."

3,500 Mexicans Are Repatriated.

Los Angeles, July 7 (A.P.).—Bound for their native land 1,500 Mexicans, residents of Los Angeles several years, left today on three special trains for El Paso, Tex. The Mexicans are another of a series of groups being repatriated by Los Angeles County to relieve suffering caused by unemployment.

Another airplane, piloted by Charles Macy, which was flying with McKelroy's plane when the latter disappeared, was expected to arrive here tonight, if weather permitted.

HOOVER HOLDS WHIP HAND.

Aided by 35 Republicans and near-Republicans, the Democrats of the House yesterday passed the Garner version of the unemployment relief bill by a vote of 202 to 156. Democrats were in a tight place, and decided that they must stand by their recently nominated candidate for Vice President. The certainty that the bill would be killed by veto helped them to make this decision. They know that they must yield to the President on the point in controversy, but in the meantime while waiting for a new bill they refrain from administering a humiliating defeat to Speaker Garner on the eve of his campaign, and they hope that the public will soon forget their attempt to foist upon the country a Government bank system.

Presumably the Senate will concur in the conference report and send the bill to the President without delay. This is the shortest cut out of the situation. A prompt veto will kill the bill, and the way will then be open for enactment of a sensible measure. If the Senate should refuse to concur with the House the resulting deadlock would prolong the session, with no assurance that the House would consent to eliminate the provision to which the President objects.

Political speeches are to be expected in the Senate. Democrats are compelled to make the best of the situation into which Speaker Garner has plunged them. But since the deadly veto awaits the bill it would be wise for senators to curtail their political speeches for the sake of expediting national relief. The country is not in the mood for politics as a substitute for relief. Speaker Garner's speech and President Hoover's public statement have clearly defined the issue, and Senate discussion will not change it.

Both parties desire unemployment relief legislation. The President desires it. Congress will not adjourn without enacting a relief bill acceptable to the President. The only outcome, therefore, is the defeat of the Garner plan for creating a gigantic Government bank with thousands of branches and tens of thousands of employees.

Having performed the gesture of supporting their candidate for Vice President, Democrats of the House will be free to vote for a relief bill which eliminates the Garner plan for putting the Government into the money-lending business. They must do this or deal a death-blow to their party by making it responsible for denial of unemployment relief to the people of the United States. The dream of Speaker Garner as presiding officer of the Senate would end in a rude awakening, long before November, if the Democrats of the House should insist upon supporting his plan for a bank with ten thousand branches and thereby defeat him and his party.

As the proposal to establish a huge Government bank with innumerable branches is further studied the country begins to understand the fatal character of the plan sponsored by Speaker Garner. Expressions of amazement are pouring in from all quarters, and it is only the knowledge that this plan is foredoomed to die that prevents the public from becoming deeply alarmed.

Whatever the Senate may do, the Speaker of the House has led his party into a position which greatly increases public distrust of its capacity to administer the Government. With Gov. Roosevelt surrounded by radicals and advocating "bold experiments" as a Government policy, and with Speaker Garner going him one better by actually attempting to put the Government into the banking business, the Democratic candidates seem to be anxious to alienate the support of all sober thinking citizens.

At the head of this Government stands a vigilant and courageous President who will not yield to frenzied schemes for fear that the people will believe that he is not really anxious to relieve the depression. He relies upon the people to give him credit for good faith while he battles for a relief measure that will give relief and not work more damage than it cures. He holds the whip hand, and Congress must pass such a bill.

POLITICAL BEER.

Throughout this session of Congress Senator Tydings has pleaded for beer and more beer. When revenue legislation was being framed he wanted to raise taxes from beer; when relief was proposed, he advanced a scheme to finance it with beer. Fortunately indeed was the committee that could get a measure through without having to fight a Tydings amendment to legalize and tax beer.

But last week the Democratic party indulged a plank at Chicago calling for "immediate modification of the Volstead law." Instead of rejoicing in this triumph of his one great idea and rushing to put it into effect, the Senator from Maryland has suddenly contracted an aversion for beer legislation. Some uncanny instinct tells him that beer in the home loan bank bill would be objectionable, although it would have been the salvation of the country in the tax bill or the many relief measures.

It is painfully apparent that the glorious, foaming beverage that was hailed with such riotous enthusiasm at Chicago has turned sour in the Senate. The headache of the morning after is afflicting the crusaders who indulged in political delirium. Even those who forced the plank for "immediate modification" into the platform are trying to dodge a vote.

In the House the situation is not substantially different. The platform on which Speaker Garner is making the race for Vice President demands instantaneous beer, but the Speaker will make no move to slake the thirst of the masses. How can the thick-headed public be made to understand that the beer provided for in the platform is merely political foam? Political beer is everywhere, but there's not a drop to drink. The effect of Senator Bingham's beer amendment will be to notify the country that the Democratic party is not as wet as the beer crusaders at Chicago believed. The wet parade was only a part of the Democratic circus. Democratic senators and members who are dry and dare not be otherwise face the embarrassment of repudiating their party's platform or betraying their constituents. It is a serious situation, indeed, when Senator Tydings turns tail at the sight of beer.

THREATS OF DISORDER.

It is very evident that the bonus army can not remain in Washington much longer without becoming involved in serious trouble. Hunger and discomfort have exhausted the patience of the men. Disease threatens them. Communist agitation constantly works to precipitate riots and bloodshed. Chief of Police Glasgow prevented what might have become a tragic fracas between opposing factions yesterday. It is inconceivable that several thousand destitute men can continue to live here under the conditions that prevail in the bonus army camps without causing disorder. The Government is making arrangements to lend these unfortunate veterans enough money to pay their railway fare home and to provide them with subsistence en route. If not repaid, this fund will be deducted from their adjusted service certificates when a final settlement is made. It remains for the veterans themselves to abandon the idea of remaining in Washington until the bonus is paid.

The veterans have the alternative of accepting this opportunity to return home or of staying in Washington until they are driven out by dire hardship. Order must be preserved. The Government will not allow the veterans to stay here when they are no longer disposed to keep the peace. Nor will they be permitted to indulge in panhandling. Washington can not support thousands of idle veterans.

Unemployment relief is about to be extended to the States. The funds lent by Congress can be used to provide work for the unemployed, including veterans. Veterans can not obtain work here, but they can be reasonably sure of relief if they return to their home States. The leaders in the bonus camps can show their patriotism best by immediately counseling the veterans to go home.

STOP FOREIGN DUMPING.

Continued low prices abroad and intensified competition are causing acute distress in some American industries. During the last year domestic industrial activity has steadily declined, but imports continue to flow into the United States at about the same rate as prevailed in 1931. In spite of the Smoot-Hawley tariff. Prices have fallen, but the volume of imports, in many instances, has increased. Where those imports come into direct competition with American enterprise domestic suffering is intensified.

Two chief reasons for this wholesale dumping upon the American market stand out. First, revision of the British tariff closed the markets of that country to many industries of continental Europe. Those industries are now dumping their surplus upon the American market. Many other tariff walls have been built in Europe during the last two years. Each country finds it more and more difficult to sell its products to its neighbors. Consequently, they are shipped off to the United States for what they will bring.

Reason number two concerns depreciated currency. Countries that are off the gold standard and the United States a very profitable market. One country with depreciated currency finds no advantage in trading with another country in the same circumstances. But it has a considerable advantage in trading with gold-standard nations. Hence, there is intensive competition for the markets of the United States and France. But France has raised quotas and embargoes until outside competition is almost completely eliminated. This means, of course, greater pressure by importers on the markets of the United States.

Among the domestic industries that are hard pressed are the steel mills. Germany and France are paying bounties on steel exports. Wages for common labor in this industry have been depressed to 75 cents per day in Europe. Under these conditions it is not difficult for these countries to keep their mills going by dumping various products on the American market over the tariff wall. Some other industries are even more seriously demoralized.

This situation warrants careful attention by the Treasury Department, which is charged with the administration of the anti-dumping laws. The tariff act provides that "unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States, . . . the effect or tendency of which is to destroy or substantially injure an industry efficiently and economically operated in the United States, or to prevent establishment of such an industry, or to restrain or monopolize trade and commerce in the United States, are hereby declared unlawful." The President is authorized to exclude merchandise that enters into such unfair competition.

In this critical period every attempt to dump surplus upon the American market at ruinous prices ought to be scrutinized. The anti-dumping provision was enacted to take care of just such emergency cases. The administration should not hesitate to use it whenever evidence of dumping and unfair competition is produced.

PORK DRIPPINGS.

"I plead with you," urged Speaker Garner in his address to the House, "to let all the people have some drippings from this wonderful banking institution."

Drippings! Wonderful banking institution! Uncle Sam to lend money to everybody, everywhere!

Jack Garner certainly knows how to appeal to the common man. He made a gallant fight to spread the blessings of pork over this stricken land, but the common man discovered that Jack's idea was to give the largest slices to a "selected clientele" of congressmen, those ducks who must have Treasury pork or become permanently lame. Huffed in this plan, Speaker Jack now proposes that thousands of branch banks be set up throughout the United States, so that no common man shall fail to get some drippings.

"Drippings" is a toothsome word. It makes the mouth water. Its aroma fills the House. The ravished senses of the common man can hear and smell the sizzling of roast pork and see the gray dripping, dripping into the pan; a big pan, as big as the United States; and the gray is for all who care to sop it up, and not merely for the bloated rich.

Good, generous Jack Garner is not a man to sulk when he can not have his way. When the common people objected to his preferential pork-barrel plan for the relief of congressmen threatened with unemployment he promptly amplified his plan, and poured hogsheds of drippings over his critics. That is turning the other jowl with a vengeance; that is statesmanship. The common man first endures, then pities, then embraces the temptress, and loses all shame as he intoxicates himself upon the delicious drippings from the Treasury.

The unemployment bill as championed by Speaker Jack annihilates unemployment at one fell stroke by providing jobs for tens of thousands of bank presidents, vice presidents, directors, cashiers, tellers, messengers and charwomen in all parts of continental United States. That man will be very common indeed who does not capture a banking job when "this wonderful banking institution" is set up. A job and drippings besides!

President Hoover objects to this plan, and insists that there is not money enough in the country to establish these banks and provide the drippings. But who is Hoover? Isn't he the killjoy who has always objected to pork? Life would be nothing but a demitison grind if Hoover had his way. He has no imagination, no soul, no compassion for the downtrodden. He seems to think he is the guardian of the Treasury. What is the Treasury, if it is not the people's reservoir? Broach it! Broach it! Let the fattest flow out, and let every man have his share of the drippings.

Congress, with its massive sledgehammer, should knock the Hoover veto to smithereens and cave in the head of the Treasury pork-bar. Speaker Jack Garner is the people's friend. Down with Hoover, the man who would keep pork from the people! Up with Jack Garner, the prize pork-peddler and drippings-dipper of the ages!

The next time William Gibbs McAdoo proposes to bury a hatchet Al Smith will probably inquire who has been selected as the candidate for the cemetery.

Dry Democratic senators decide that the party platform shall not become effective until after the election. The dividend on beer is omitted.

It begins to look as if it's all over at Lausanne, except the concerted whining into a megaphone pointed Americaward.

The only nominee the Democrats have yet to select is an "angel" to succeed John Raskob, the forgotten man.

Mattern and Griffin are not the only Americans who have been lost in Soviet Russia.

What could be stranger than Al Smith talking of politics in a still small voice?

Jack Garner forgets what Andy Jackson did to the Bank of the United States.

Everywhere That Garner Went the Pork Was Sure to Go.

POST HASTE.

Definition: A Federal loan on security that does not rate commercial credit is a dote.

Under Jack Garner's plan for loans to everybody the relief bill wouldn't provide a mouthful. At least 20,000,000 of us would want $500 each and that would be ten billions. If we go into this don't let's be pikers.

With water on one shoulder for Southern dries and beer on the other for Eastern wets, where is Gov. Roosevelt going to balance the balance of the party dissimilitudes?

Senator Borah says there can be no return of trade unless the fall of prices is arrested. Commodity market reports show that the arrest has been made. Yes, electric power production is also increasing.

A Col. Pope is sounding out the Soviet on American recognition. There should be something sounding in his officious ear when he returns.

The modern drug store is vindicated. A survey shows that 10 per cent of the customers actually patronize the drug department.

Those Frenchmen must be somewhat human after all. Deputies are fighting over economies and taxes necessary to balance the budget.

"How could any one support the Democratic party without supporting the candidates?" After five days of pondering Al Smith had to give up finding an answer.

Bad as things are, there are still five persons at work for every one unemployed. Fool legislation can still make that a 50-50 proposition.

Democrats turn appealingly to Albany for interpretation as to whether "immediate modification" means "now."

If all the exiled ex-presidents of Chile fly back for old home week, hard times in Santiago will improve—or something.

Democrats are giving a fairly creditable sample of synthetic joy over the Glum Warrior's damnation with faint praise.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

RECALLING EIGHTEEN NINETY-THREE.

When I was but a little boy
My father and my mother said:
"You can't have sugar on your bread."

We'd like to grant you such a joy,
But times are hard, and we must save.
And one and all must now be brave."

Way back in eighteen ninety-three,
When I was but a youngster small,
Strange talks oftentimes I recall.
My lovely mother seemed to me
Forever mending stockings worn
And patching little breeches torn.

I knew my father's eyes seemed sad,
But still we children roamed about,
And all the things we did without
No whit disturbed our spirits glad.
We all were given tasks to do
And seemed to thrive upon them, too.

Let's sigh no more! The clouds will pass!
In years to come our children may Think back upon this present day,
And look at us through memory's glass.
Then proudly may their pulses stir
As they recall how brave we were.

The Final Perfect Charity Consists in Making It Unnecessary.

By ROBERT QUILEN

SMITH and Jones were men who owned factories. Both were classed as good citizens and both produced honest merchandise, but there the similarity ended.

Jones was a money-maker. Every time he turned his hand over he found a profit in it.

His factory buildings multiplied and he provided jobs for ever-increasing hundreds of men, so that people said of him: "He is a benefactor of the human race. How could we do without him?"

Nor was that the end of his good works. As his fortune grew he began to share it with the unfortunate. When the workers in his factories grew old and no longer could earn their living, he provided a home for them and gave them pensions.

He cared for younger workers who were injured or ill; he provided medicine for the sick and paid the hospital bills of those who required operations. He even built a home for fallen girls.

And thus all of the people who worked for Jones were cared for in time of misfortune and newspapers spoke of "Jones the philanthropist."

Smith employed a lot of people, too, and produced a lot of goods, but he didn't get very rich.

"No wonder," people said. "His overhead is too heavy. He pays outrageously high wages."

Well, the two men lived according to their lights and grew old in harness and died. They closed their earthly accounts at the same hour and together stood at the gate kept by St. Peter.

"Welcome, both!" cried the saint. Then he turned to Jones and said: "We have a record of your many charities. Here is a little golden crown to wear as a watch charm."

And he said to Smith: "Here, my friend, is your reward, a golden crown to wear on your head, for you are the most charitable of men."

"No, no," said Smith. "You've got us mixed up. I never made enough money to be a philanthropist. You see, operating expenses were so high."

"I know," said the saint. "Take your well-earned reward. You didn't relieve poverty. You prevented it."

Roosevelt's Tree Scheme.

New York Herald Tribune.

The average layman instinctively felt there was some fallacy in Gov. Roosevelt's declarations on reforestation. Uttered with all the assurance in the world, they did not sound right. He would employ 1,000,000 men to reforest the millions of acres of marginal and unused land. The enterprise would be self-sustaining, he said, through the "tremendous crops." "Yes," it was, "a very definite program." "I am doing it today in the State of New York. I know that the Democratic party can do it successfully in the Nation." What was wrong with that picture? Only, in brief, that 1,000,000 men could plant all the seedling available in a few hours, that they could care for a planted area twelve times the size of the United States, that to reforest the area available for planting would cost some $2,000,000,000, and that the trees would take from 25 to 60 years to mature—not exactly a self-sustaining enterprise.

Trifling With National Credit.

Boston Transcript.

President Hoover's expected veto of the $2,300,000,000 "relief" bill passed by the Senate will represent sound versus "dishonest" finance, as Senator Moses aptly characterizes it. The measure includes Speaker Garner's pork-barrel bill and other hundreds-of-million-dollar items which will unbalance the budget, increase taxation and, for the most part, fall to make a dent in the situation created by unemployment. It is essentially a Democratic measure, and presents, for its opponents, the awkwardness that it will give the demagogues a royal chance to whoop it up for the "relief" it will extend to the distressed, who may not be prevailed upon to understand that "relief" afforded by public works is extremely limited, that an unbalanced budget is a national menace and that the imposition of such a fresh burden on the taxpayers will actually make business recovery practically impossible.

Garner's Talk of Riots.

New York Times.

Speaker Garner went back to an old bad manner of his when he exclaimed in the House yesterday that if the pending relief bill were not passed in a certain form there would be "riots." On the particular point at issue between him and the President we would not be dogmatic. There should be a compromise on minor nonessentials, thus enabling Congress to meet the longing desire of the whole country that it go home. But such language as that used by the Speaker should be religiously avoided by every public man. It tends to produce what it professes to dread and deplore.

Texas to Vote on It.

Boston Transcript.

It seems to have been unnoticed heretofore that the largest State in the Union, one whose real attitude on the subject has been a matter of speculation, is to have a popular referendum on prohibition in its primary election in July. Some weeks ago the Democratic State convention of Texas surprised the country by adopting a resolution favoring submission, and within a few days Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, whom the delegation is supporting for the presidential nomination, came out flat-footedly for repeal. Then, at a meeting of the State Democratic executive committee, Carl Eates proposed a referendum resolution, saying that he did so as a prohibitionist; and then another surprise came when the drys in the committee voted against the resolution and the wet in favor of it.

Well, anyway, Borah has done his best to make prohibition the chief issue of the campaign.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Fourth of July Extravagance Rebuked by One Who Saw a 7-Year-Old Boy Seeking Work Turned Away From Many Doors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Fourth of July celebration is over. On the morning of July 5 I saw a small boy, about 7, pushing his lawnmower from house to house, trying in vain to earn some money. Not spending money, but money that would purchase food for his family.

Housewives, who the day before had spent dollars for fireworks, refused to pay a small boy 10 cents to cut their lawns. Is this not misdirected patriotism? Are not such boys tomorrow's citizens? This lad was undernourished, but he went on from door to door, and met disillusionment and disappointment. Rather tough for one who was hungry and trying so hard to earn just a little bit.

Mr. Lanier Thinks the Bonus Marchers Should Be Organized as an Emergency Division of the Army.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Any and all efforts to find employment for the unemployed veterans are commendable. The only question as to any particular proposal is whether or not it is practicable.

Constructive suggestions have been few and far between. Gen. Glasford proposes that the Government give each unemployed veteran a 10-acre farm. Why not a white elephant? One would be as useful to the veteran as the other. What the veteran needs is immediate remunerative employment. A farm has to be stocked, buildings erected thereon and agricultural implements procured, all of which costs money and takes time. Even though the financial means were available to the veteran for all this, he and his family would starve before he could get in a position to be self-sustaining on his 10 acres; and this proposition leaves out of the question the veteran's adaptability and inclination for such an occupation, which most of them probably have not.

The press reports that Gen. Hines has ordered the regional officers of the Veterans' Administration to do all they can to locate jobs in their respective regions for the bonus marchers. All praise for the general's actions and good intentions; but will anything of immediate practical value result? Probably not, for the reasons that there are thousands on the spot in every region who are ready and available for any jobs in these localities, and it is hardly practicable to find a job a thousand miles or more from Washington for a veteran here, especially when he and the prospective employer can not be contacted so that the veteran's qualifications, character, and adaptability for the job may be ascertained.

It is the humble judgment of the writer that the only immediate solution of the problem of the bonus army encamped in Washington is to organize these men into an emergency division of the Army, which would have to be done with their consent and cooperation, as they can not be conscripted. There are many useful projects upon which these men could be employed besides merely military duties.

The immediate results of organizing these men as proposed would be the removal from Washington of a situation which is loaded with dynamite, and the preservation of the self-respect, morale and patriotism of the bonus marchers.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

Says Gov. Roosevelt Has Been Withholding Valuable Information.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One is rather startled to learn from the acceptance speech of Mr. Roosevelt that the Democratic party knows exactly what is the matter with the country and exactly how to correct the difficulty.

Mr. Roosevelt is quite explicit in his statement that he knows just what to do and immediately on taking the presidential chair he will proceed to do it. What brand of patriotism is this that withholds such invaluable knowledge from the country in its present distress? For the past two years President Hoover has called upon the best minds of the country, irrespective of party, for counsel in this great crisis, and on more than one occasion Democrats and Republicans have assembled at the White House to wrestle with the great problem, but no immediate solution was forthcoming. And all the while the Democrats possessed it but refused to reveal it!

In a single brief but pithy sentence Mr. Roosevelt sweeps aside the fog of ignorance and doubt that has so completely enveloped us and reveals the illuminating discovery he has made. "Economic laws," he says, "are not made by nature, but by human beings;" the clear implication being that what man has made, man can amend. The good old law of supply and demand, therefore, which has ridden us like a hideous nightmare for so many years, can be made by Mr. Roosevelt to roll over and play dead. He will know precisely what to do with the great surpluses of cotton that our Southern friends have been producing and continue to produce. He will know just how to deal with the tremendous surpluses of wheat that our Western farmers persist in raising. He will know what to do with the vast excess of our factory-producing capacity developed to meet the demands of war. He will know how to curtail the excessive flow of oil; and in doing all this he will incidentally find jobs for 10,000,000 idle men. If Mr. Roosevelt can do these things, then the pity is that the country should have to wait until next March before he can begin on them.

Boys Club Provides Trips to Camp Site Despite Depression.

The Boys Club of Washington, Third and C streets northwest, has provided for an excursion that will send almost every boy who so desires to the beach out of doors, despite the depression.

Leaving Monday, about 40 boys will take the 50-mile ride to Camp Reeder, on the West Hutton Farm, in Charles County, Md. Here, on the Potomac River, they will join many other campers who, in this time of financial stress, have turned to the Boys Club for relief from the heat of the city.

The club directors have made an appeal to every boy in the city to take advantage of the two-week excursion. Groups will leave every Monday until August 22. A young lad, 21 pounds under weight, was given the advantage of the camp by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. In one week a gain of 5 pounds was noted.

Marine Band Features Piano Solo Today at 10

Arrangements have been completed for the first broadcast of the Marine Band has ever made using a piano as a solo instrument. Helen Corbin Heintz, Washington pianist, will be the soloist and the experiment will be heard at 10 this morning over a nationwide network including Station WRC.

Pianists frequently appear with symphony orchestras but not with military bands. Capt. Taylor Branson believes that by means of the highly developed microphone, a tonal balance may be struck and such a performance is now possible. The troupe will furnish a midsummer musical novelty which will be observed not only by musicians here but throughout the country. Selections chosen for the occasion will be by Beethoven, Liszt and Schubert.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

SCORING THE ULTIMATE.
IN playing Rubber Bridge, tricks made above the contract are more or less immaterial. They figure, of course, in the honor score, and may add a point or two to the total when the rubber is finally added up. In tournament play, however, and particularly in games scored under the Howell match point system of scoring, the extra trick available through accurate play often spells the difference between a champion and just one of the "common herd."

An illustration of this occurred in the hand given below, which was played recently in an important eastern tournament. In its play, one South was able to secure a top score on the hand through an appreciation of all the elements which go into the correct play of the cards.

North-Dealer.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 NT Pass Pass Pass
2 NT Pass Pass Pass
3 NT Pass Pass Pass
The bidding requires no particular comment, following closely conventional lines. North and South have plenty of strength to try for a game and South's length in spades, even though holding a single stopper, indicates that notrump is probably the best final declaration.

Against the contract of three no-trump, West opened the spade Queen and continued with a spade, East winning. South won the third round of the suit.

West was in difficulty at this point. He did not know the distribution of either the clubs or the diamonds, and finally chose as his discard a small heart. With this discard South saw the opportunity of achieving a possible top on the board. It was apparent that a simple end-play would permit him to make four-odd, as East could be stripped of hearts and clubs and thrown in with a spade to lead up to the diamond tenace, if, as seemed assured in the bidding, he held the diamond King. South, therefore, now cashed four rounds of clubs and four rounds of hearts, and East was forced to find three discards. Considering it imperative to hold the diamond King on the last round of hearts, he elected to discard his last spade. South then cashed his remaining spade, and took the thirteenth trick with the diamond Ace in Dummy.

TODAY'S POINTER.
In playing Bridge, an extra trick scored over the contract is ordinarily an immaterial thing. The success of the contract should never be risked in chasing a rainbow, but, with the contract assured, a good player will make every effort to score all tricks available.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

The Everyday Subconscious.
THERE is nothing incomprehensible about the subconscious mind, in spite of the thousands of pages that have been written about it. And yet I am sure we think of it as a mysterious subject. Insofar as it is, the mystery is limited to the clothing with which we drape a very simple matter-of-fact, every-day figure. The hundreds of books written for the purpose of explaining the matter have first created a Frankenstein, then mixed his head, legs and arms like an unsolved jigsaw puzzle.

More than 99 per cent of our acts are the result of subconscious thought. This proportion holds even if we exclude automatic actions, sometimes called vegetative, that are so necessary for the continuance of life—such as heart beat, breathing, adjustment of the pupils to light, the change in the distribution of blood throughout the body, and the movement of the stomach and other digestive organs.

Ninety-nine per cent of our muscle action in walking is directed by the subconscious mind. Very little of what we hear reaches up to the plane of the conscious. In a sense we hear it, and, to a degree, we govern ourselves by it, but we are not conscious of what we hear nor of our responses.

The same statement holds true of the images that we are focused in our eyes and the sensations made on the nerves of the skin. We can go to a still higher nerve level without reaching that of consciousness. These various acts that we are accustomed to performing on the subconscious level we do best when we let them take care of themselves.

A man can "walk a crack" with no difficulty, so long as he does it subconsciously, but once he puts his mind on it he does a poor job. The structural worker who walks a beam 400 feet in the air is safe so long as he gives no thought to it. Thoughtless walking may be graceful. Conscious walking never is.

No small part of our thinking is done on the subconscious plane. In some parts of our thinking or what we call thinking the mind is running in grooves which lie below the level that we call conscious. Some of our thinking is done best on that level.

When an employee is talking to the boss, and an inferiority complex makes him cautious or overcautious, he is certain to present his subject poorly.

Besides these considerations, however, there is a fairly small part of the subconscious thinking which is not so easily understood. It is about this small part that the mystery stuff has been written.

It is influenced by the dusts and germs and by memories. Some of our mental reactions, which we think of as proving that we are free agents, are the result of physiological influences such as the dusts and gland secretions. Memory may be compared to a process of filling or pigeonholing. We do not always card index and double reference the subjects that we file. Sometimes we know the path is there, but we do not know how to get in it. These pigeon holes sometimes leak. The leakings may wet the contents of others.

But this kind of subconscious thinking is rather rare as compared with the other kind. And it is not so mysterious nor so difficult to understand as some would have us think.

IT IS YOUR NERVES.

It is not your blood. You may have some mild disorder of the nerves which control the walls of your smaller blood vessels.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Sea green, and delightfully chic, is this dress of heavy crepe, with its matching jacket, collared in mink and showing interesting incrustations. (A Dupouy Magnin design.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—I tell you, any one who even tries to predict summer's fashions is a fool. It is a guess! Why, it's gotten so that it actually saves money not to buy a wardrobe at all—but to dash out the very same day and get a new frock for the night's date—and then you aren't even sure to be right!

Restaurants and cafe owners in Paris haven't gone gray haired over it for one simple reason. They pulled all their hair out long ago. Now there is nothing to do but pray, hope and "coise"—maybe a little of all three. Armoneville, I think, is the most courageous—the place, not the owner. For Bois de Boulogne is liable to be so rare and so widely spaced apart that it's a day by day chance whether this famous outdoor rendezvous will, like so many of its famous contemporaries, fold up its little gates and steal away to oblivion.

One thing I will say, and that is that Dame Fashion is being kind to us these days. There is scarcely a frock from last summer, for instance, that can't be worn this summer—all style columns, magazines and couturiers notwithstanding. And the cotton people—they who have been responsible for this vogue of rough and interesting cotton materials being worn for daytime as well as evening, all us that they are preparing for four or five years, not seasons, of cotton popularity.

Hats are the most eccentric. I have my Paris hats made over with alarming regularity—and it costs pennies, too. "Now they have to be refashioned for fall, all on a new angle and what have you. Finally they give up in despair, and there is nothing left to do but buy a new hat—you know how it is. Still, an expensive hat is rather a good investment, at that, because it does lend itself to making over, and, always, looks right as long as it holds up.

Above may be a bit obscure—but really, it isn't. This is just a dissertation on the perplexities and contradictions of the day.

Hip, hip—hooray! I mean, hips aren't something to deny in the Maison Dupouy Magnin, apparently. For the frock as well as the hat, even perhaps exaggerated hip possibilities, a little.

Green, these two garments, the jacket mink collared, and delightfully cut as to decorative incrustations. Do you like them? Something for you to make in your spare time, any hot day this summer when it would just be a bore to go out. Something that doesn't require such a lot of skill to make. But it does take sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, though. A telephone book cover, artistic! Yes, something really and truly artistic, something useful, too, and a perfect gift for anyone or more especially, a man. You needn't have skilled fingers, either, to make this telephone cover from our directions. Try and see.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:10 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Friday, July 8, will be peculiarly fitted for business, and contrarily unfitted for the frivolities of life. Games will be played with a life and death attitude, and quarrels will upset many a friendly bridge table. Farmers' would notice a marked change in the market prices of their products, due to a gamble on foreign harvests.

The child born on this July 8 will be talkative, high-spirited and gay. In its school work it will be both quick and industrious, and in sports keen and alert. It will be naturally gregarious and willing to "mix" friends in a very democratic way. There will be no snobbery about it.

There is much in your make-up that is promising and a great deal that is likable. You start things with enthusiasm; you tee off with brilliant shots, and do not need to be told to keep your eye on the ball. You are not afraid of most hazards and are willing to "take on" the best of them in competition. It is difficult to say just why you so often come out the ultimate loser, or why your handicap is large instead of small. You seem weak on the putting greens of the more serious games of life. You are a disappointment to yourself and others at the finish.

You are good at bold and vigorous strokes whether mental or physical, but you are not good at the finer or finishing shots in life. You are often too sure and relax your best efforts at times when your greatest skill and technique are needed and carelessness creeps in.

In all the games of life you show sportsmanship and are a gracious loser. You are not a grandstand player, or too keen about always being a winner. You enjoy your work and enjoy your play, but will never become a slave to either. You are not intellectual, although extremely intelligent. Picture galleries, churches and ruins bore you, but you are a keen lover of all the beauties of nature. You love music which is not too "high-brow," and are a very good dancer. Your friends will be many, and there are no reasons for you to have any enemies.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

LET'S GO GOLFING; IT'S GRAND FOR THE WAISTLINE.

GOLF is another grand exercise that should be included in our series of summer sports. While not limited to summer alone, this season, with its lightweight clothes, its sunshine and vacations, offers several inducements to the lovers of outdoor sports.

In spite of all the quips aimed at middle-aged men who are slaves to the sport, if some of our clever business women realized the benefits of taking an afternoon off occasionally, away from the grind of business details and routine, things would clear up a bit. Brain cells would become more active, spirits would mount, bulges would melt.

Men Clever Worry Dodgers.

Men are clever worry dodgers, and all the more successful for it, I think. When they get bored or surfeited with business worries, they run away from it. They have their winter vacations, fishing and hunting trips, outdoor activities. Yes, they run away, and when they come back ambitions are renewed, ideas and plans and enthusiasm, too, and youth and pep. Perhaps that's why they say men stay younger than women.

Simple Sport Clothes.

For golf simple summer sport clothes are appropriate and lovely. Light, pastel colors will make you look and feel cool, and refreshing. Hats can be simple, crushable affairs, with a brim if you wish and a colorful band. Don't wear tight clothes—have them comfortable so that you can move about freely. If you've seen the recent Bobby Jones releases, it all looks very simple as he does it. Well, you may discover that things are not what they seem. But, it is fun to preserve and see your shots improve, to practice until you get strength enough for long drives, to be important and good enough for your husband to say to a colleague, rather proudly, "Let's go out to the club this afternoon. My wife is there, probably just finishing a round, and that lovely little lady is good, I'll tell you."

Even if you can't do the course in par, or haven't any birds to your credit, what of it? The sport in itself is fun and the exercise it affords is grand for arms, shoulders, legs and waistline.

If you can't indulge in any active outdoor sports, but do wish to exercise systematically for a few minutes a day, send for my bulletins giving general and special exercises. Don't forget the self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

SCALLOPED LIVER AND WHOLE WHEAT.

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

Liver deserves a place frequently in the family diet, because it is a valuable food for everybody, especially for children. When the price of calves liver makes it a luxury, beef, pork, and lamb liver may be used.

These are less expensive, and equally effective for building red blood cells. Poultry and rabbit livers and kidneys are also good. Liver and kidneys contain a large amount of iron, and also some copper. These minerals, as well as other substances furnished by both meats, help to prevent and cure some types of anemia.

Liver has a very delicate flavor if properly prepared. It may be easily overdone by cooking too long or at too high a temperature. Sautéing and broiling are desirable ways of preparing lamb and calves' liver, and tender, fresh, beef liver, all of which should be cooked only long enough to take away the red color. Pork or other liver with a less delicate flavor and texture, tastes better if simmered for a few minutes and then broiled or baked. It can be ground and made into a loaf with rice, or served as a scalloped or creamed dish, or as a salad with cucumbers and celery.

Mixed with scrambled eggs or in omelet it makes an excellent lunch dish with the liver flavor somewhat mellowed. Ground liver with seasonings makes a good sandwich filling.

The Department of Agriculture recommends the following recipe because it combines liver with another valuable food:

Scalloped Liver and Whole Wheat.

4 slices bacon

4 tablespoons chopped onion

Salt and pepper

Flour

1/2 pound liver

2 cups cooked whole wheat

Tabasco sauce

1/2 cup hot water

Fry the bacon until crisp, remove it and brown the onion in the fat. Push the onions to one side of the skillet. Salt, pepper, and lightly flour the liver and fry it slowly in the bacon fat, until the red color disappears, turning it frequently. Cut up the liver and bacon, mix with the onion, add more salt if needed, and a few drops of tabasco sauce. Put the wheat and the liver mixture in alternate layers in a greased baking dish.

Pour the hot water around the inside of the dish; cover and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve from the dish.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Here's a cool little affair which is very practical with its wee bloomers to match.

Yellow and white dimity print with plain yellow was the original model carried out, but dozens of other schemes are possible. Plain white bias bands finished the yoke, hem and sleeves.

You'll find it especially easy to fashion it. Price of pattern, 15 cents. Style No. 2840 may be had in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yards of 38-inch material with 1/4 yard of 32-inch contrasting and 4 yards of binding.

Delicious schemes in fresh blue and white checked gingham, pink flowered batiste or French blue linen dotted in white, would be adorable.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, etc., by sending 10 cents for this book to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue, and Twenty-third street, New York City.

... to perfect the taste of CLICQUOT

NOT "to make conversation," but to create perfect flavor—that's why the choice flavor elements that go into Clicquot Club Ginger Ale are AGED 6 MONTHS before the blend is sweetened and combined with sparkling water. Time perfects this distinctive taste. Aged flavor is mellow flavor—something you always get in America's fine ginger ale. Bottled in brand-new bottles.

MAY'S ALEXANDRIA
PAVING BOND DELAYBoothe Advises Alexandria
Council Company Will
Obey Franchise.THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
507 F Street N. E., Alexandria 523.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Gardner L. Boothe, attorney for Robert L. May, owner of the abandoned Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Electric Railway, appeared before the city council yesterday in reference to the request of the council that the company furnish a bond of $50,000 guaranteeing that the company's rails in the city limits would be removed and the streets repaved.

Mr. Boothe stated that so far Mr. May has been unable to obtain a bond except under conditions almost impossible to comply with; that there is no disposition to evade the obligations of the company in this respect, and that as soon as money is available for the liquidation of some of the assets of the company the work will be started. The charter of the company, granted in 1893, states that if and when the company shall have abandoned the rails for a period of six months the rails shall be taken up and the streets repaved, at the expense of the company. The six months' period will expire October 1, but Mr. Boothe stated the work will be started just as soon as money is available.

Mr. Boothe also stated that it might be possible to obtain a bond in a lesser amount, based on the assets of the company, and that he would immediately look into this phase of the matter.

The request of E. J. Mervin for permit to make improvements on a garage at the corner of Raymond avenue and the Washington-Richmond highway was granted.

New Broadcasting Station.
A communication was received from H. C. Butcher, vice president of the Old Dominion Broadcasting Co., a subsidiary of the Columbia Broadcasting Co., stating that the company will erect its new transmitter building on the corner of the Memorial boulevard and north of Four Mile Run; that the building will be of attractive colonial design; construction will begin within three weeks and the station will be on the air by September 15 or October 1, replacing the old station WJWB. The company will employ Alexandria contractors and workmen, as far as possible, he stated.

A communication was received from W. B. Rose, relative to rezoning of the 700 block South Washington street, protesting against a petition from Mrs. George E. Hill to have this block rezoned from "A" residential to "C" commercial. An application previously submitted for a permit for a gasoline station at the corner of Washington and Franklin streets was discussed in this connection, and it was decided that, since the 700 block South Washington street is already zoned "A" residential, steps would be taken to remove the square bounded by Franklin, Jefferson, Washington and Columbus streets, with the exception of two lots already rezoned, changing this block from "D" commercial to "A" residential. A public hearing on this matter was set for July 28.

A request from John B. Gordon for permit to erect a sign at the Old Presbyterian Meeting House was received, and the clerk was instructed to inform Mr. Gordon that the council did not see the necessity for such a sign. Request of Homer Jones for a permit to place a sign on the Rhine funeral home, at 221 North Patrick street, was denied. The city manager informed the council that the services of the superintendent of streets have been dispensed with and his duties taken over by the city manager's office.

Legion Seeks Funds.
A communication was received from P. Clinton Knight, chairman of the convention committee of Alexandria Post 24, American Legion, requesting that the council appropriate $500 to help defray the expenses of the State convention to be held in Alexandria July 21, August 1 and 2. Mr. Knight will be notified that his committee will be given a hearing at an informal meeting of the council next Thursday.

A letter from Edward Duncan, relative to the desire of the council to purchase a lot from him so that Seventh street might be opened, stated that Mr. Duncan did not desire to sell any part of the lot, since this would lower the value of his other property and interfere with its sale. The council will look over the site and confer further with Mr. Duncan. Permission was granted Mrs. Carlyle Herbert Hoff to erect an ornamental railing across the windows at 413 South Lee street.

Newman H. Raymond appeared before the council with a request for permit to erect two brick apartment houses, each two stories in height and containing eight apartments, at the southwest corner of Belvidere and Mount Vernon avenues. The matter was referred to the city manager for report.

A city planning ordinance, outlining the duties and plans of the Park and Planning Commission, was placed on its first reading and held over under the rules. The personnel of the new commission is to be the same as that of the old zoning commission until the new personnel is appointed, which will consist of one member of the city council and four members to be appointed by the mayor. The ordinance is very comprehensive.

Three men arrested Monday for violation of the Seventh Election District law prohibiting sale of fireworks that district were fined yesterday by Judge Charles W. Woodward in county police court at Rockville, after the fireworks had exploded in the courtyard of the courthouse to prove their explosive nature.

Dr. Wilbur E. Evans, Washington dentist, who is proprietor of a gasoline station in Chevy Chase, was fined $25 and costs. The man who complained about the doctor's sale of fireworks, and who made a purchase and swore out a warrant against him, also was fined $25 and costs. The man who was fined $25 and costs, later in the same evening for the same offense. He is Louis Jackson, and he was fined $5. Joseph Harris was fined $15 for the same offense.

Two men were arrested yesterday by Prince Georges County police on suspicion of having attempted to kidnap Howard S. Suit, of Largo, but later released when Suit made nondistinct statements to the authorities.

Suit, who is 18, said he hailed the pair for a ride early yesterday on his way home. Instead of taking him home, he said, they turned the car around and told him they were going to take him for a ride. He attempted to jump from the moving car and was struck on the back of the head by one of the men. He made his escape, however, and staggered to the home of a neighbor, who notified police.

Later the car stopped before the home of Magistrate Robert E. Altman, in Bladensburg, and one of the men asked the way to Glen Arden. Altman, who knew of the kidnapping, gave them a roundabout route and hurried to Glen Arden with County Policeman Ralph Brown.

When the pair arrived, Brown arrested them and took them to Suit, who partially identified one of them. But his story, police said, was so conflicting and confusing that the men were later released.

Woodcock to Quit
Dry Post in Fall
Eager to Get Back to Law,
He Says; Time Expired
on July 1.

(Associated Press.)
Amos W. W. Woodcock, who took the job of directing the Nation's dry forces for the two years which expired last July 1, will remain at his post until after the November elections. Asked what he would do then, he replied yesterday, "I am eager to get back to the law."

Whether or not he returns to his law practice in Salisbury, Md., it is considered unlikely he will continue beyond November as head of the Prohibition Bureau of the Justice Department.

Woodcock is 48 and a lieutenant colonel in the National Guard, with which he served on the Mexican border in 1916 and later in France. He first came to prominence as United States attorney in Baltimore in 1922. His predecessor had prosecuted one prohibition case—and lost it. In one year he disposed of about 1,800.

New York, July 7 (A.P.)—Martha Parra, professional strong woman, filed suit for $50,000 today against Morris G. Gerry paper box manufacturer, to whom she said she gave "the best years" of her life. Miss Parra is reputed to have lifted an elephant off the ground before a Times Square crowd several years ago.

She alleged in her suit that Gerry promised, on Washington Birthday in 1920, to pay her $100 a week for life if she would be at his "beck and call." The payments stopped, she said, on June 25, 1931.

Kansas City, July 7 (A.P.).—Two men identified by police as Thomas Holden, 35, and Francis L. ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

If you had asked me, I would have said I'd be the last one in the world to work up even a mild enthusiasm over a tax assessor. But, as the man cracked wise, circumstances alter cases, and who should supply today's first paragraph but the county assessor out Los Angeles way? It just goes to show.

But if the county assessor doesn't have a pretty fair inkling of who is the world's richest celebrity, who does? And it was only yesterday that he spilled the beans and put to rest one of Hollywood's prevalent speculations by disclosing that the assessment roll revealed that princely comic, Mr. Charles Spencer Chaplin, to be the film coloring Croesus, with taxable stocks and bonds valued at $7,687,570. Douglas Fairbanks is runner-up to Chaplin with taxable stocks and bonds valued at $689,000. Harold Lloyd, reputedly one of the richest young men in Hollywood, tags along with $174,450 in stocks and bonds, an automobile worth $700, furniture, $102,940, and real estate, $341,260.

Constance Bennett's luxurious Malibu Beach home, it appears, contains furniture that is worth only $200! Sister Joan owns an automobile listed at $1,000, but a piano valued at twice that.

Oh, yes, an obscure person named Garbo owns taxable stocks and bonds valued at $122,016, and, ye gods! a motor car listed at $220—probably a misprint for scooter!

But all that doesn't make us jealous. As we have bragged before, this column is right up there with the rest of them with taxable securities valued at less than $5,000,000. And I wouldn't fool you!

Senator Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, Spanish Ambassador to the United States, will be the guest of Senorita Conchita Montenegro at Loe's Fox Theater at tonight's last performance. The Ambassador and his staff will enjoy the presidential box in the mezzanine tier.

Georgetown Instrument Notes Hard Earthquake

(Associated Press.)

A severe earthquake beginning at about 11:30 a. m. (Eastern standard time), was reported yesterday by Director John S. O'Connor of the Georgetown University seismological observatory. He estimated the center of the disturbance was about 2,100 miles from Washington. The distance, he said, corresponded with the seismic activity in Mexico last month and there was good reason to believe the disturbance was centered there.

Pasadena, Calif., July 7 (A.P.).—The seismograph at the observatory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington reported a strong earthquake today at a distance of about 500 miles, direction not determined. The first shock was timed at 8:17:28 a. m. and the second at 8:19 a. m. (Pacific standard time).

ARCHITECT FOR NAVY EDIFICE OPENS SUIT

Waddy Wood Asks $90,000 in Indefinite Delay of Remodeling Project.

Charging that the indefinite postponement of the remodeling of the State, War and Navy Building has been "an overwhelming calamity to me," Waddy B. Wood, Washington architect engaged to do the drawings on the project, yesterday opened suit against the Government for $90,000. In his brief filed yesterday in the United States Court of Claims, Mr. Wood stated he has already received approximately $20,000 but that an equal sum is now due.

The claim says that the architect has finished all the architectural work on the building with the exception of the actual supervision of the construction work.

Subpoena Issued.

Howe P. Cochran and Charles Leo DeOrsey represent Mr. Wood. The Government is represented by E. N. Griswold, an attorney of the Department of Justice.

Subpoenas have been issued for the appearance of Secretary of the Treasury, Assistant Secretary Perry Heath, and Supervising Architect James A. Wetmore. Their appearance was postponed, however, and Mr. Wood gave the first testimony.

Mr. Cochran called the State, War and Navy Building one of the world's greatest architectural masterpieces. He said that Mr. Wood had been retained to remodel it for 6 per cent of the total cost of the job.

Dreams of Lifetime.

The attorney gave Mr. Wood credit for originating the plan of remodeling which would make the State, War and Navy Building similar in appearance to the Treasury Department.

"I am no longer a young man," Mr. Wood wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury. "This was going to be my masterpiece. It embodied the dreams of my lifetime. As a result of this I expected to occupy a place in architectural history. It would, I think, have been one of the most beautiful buildings in the world."

"But it has been indefinitely postponed. I had confidently expected to put the work out for bids last year. My office force was maintained throughout this time, expecting to go ahead, and the work would have been almost finished now if the contract had been promptly let."

It costs you absolutely nothing to receive a free ten-day test supply of the herbal muscle-ionic "Plapao," and to examine and have demonstrated to you privately—a scientific self-treatment, which so many others attest under oath rid them of their rupture and saved them from the knife.

Free—Plapao—Free

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are patently different from the true, being mechanical-chemical applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle tonic called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. Fabric soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. During 26 years thousands have successfully treated themselves at home—without hindrance from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome, Grand Prix, Paris, and Honorable Mention, San Francisco. Process of recovery is natural, so no subsequent use for any kind of support.

BE SURE TO CALL!

Do not fail to call on Dr. Elliott as you may not have another opportunity for some time.

Remember the time and place. If not able to call, write for FREE TRIAL PLAPAO. Address Plapao Co., 998 Stuart Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

Dimple Machine and Trap For Tapeworm Plans Aired

Patent Office Also Contains Specifications for Other
Strange Devices as Self-Tipping Derby, Turret
Coffin and Bedbug Frightener.

New York, July 7 (U.P.).—People who have been looking for a tapeworm trap, an air-cooled rocking chair, goggles for their chickens, bullet-proof devices for treating and maintaining dimples, are herewith referred to the United States Patent Office where specifications of such articles are on file, stamped with the Government's approval.

Two men have tried into the Patent Office records and out of their labors has come a compilation of strange inventions, which will be published here tomorrow under the title, "Beware of Imitations."

The contrivances have been designed for a wide variety of problems. There is, for example, a combination grocery package, grater, slicer and mouse and my trap. A balloon propelled by harnesses eagles or vultures, patented in 1887, is pictured and described. There is a wreckless railroad train, which functions by the simple device of having tracks on top of the cars and ramps at either end so that if another train comes along, it will run up over the top and down again.

Two methods of awakening the commuter are included. One is an alarm clock attachment which aquirts water on the sleeper's neck, while the other drops 80 or 90 wooden blocks in his face.

A self-tipping derby hat, patented in 1896, contains a mechanism in the crown. The gentleman, when the lady approaches, bows slightly, whereupon his hat tips by itself.

Health Experts Prove Home Is Best Place for Vacation

Tan Easily Acquired on Apartment House Roof and Own Bed Is Most Conducive to Sleep, U. S.
Department Workers Point Out.

(Associated Press.)

If you can't afford to go away for your vacation this year, don't take it too hard. Uncle Sam's health experts say it may be better for you to stay at home anyway.

Opinion that a "stay-at-home" vacation is oftentimes the healthiest is a convincing factor that the Public Health Service has found in present economic conditions.

The idea is based on medical men's knowledge that many "vacations" are anything but that, from a health standpoint. Travel and change of scene are undoubtedly beneficial, say the health service's experts, but too many holiday-seekers return from their annual fortnight of freedom wearier than when they left.

Too much vacation, they point out, is as harmful as too much work. But a vacation at home, if you must spend it there, with your feet cocked on the porch rail and plenty of sleep in your own comfortable bed, is capable of giving you real rest and relaxation.

Issuing advice on "how to benefit from a vacation spent at home," the Health Service says it doesn't matter so much where you spend your vacation as how you spend it.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

NORMAN BAKER, who lost his license to operate Station KINTZ, at Shenandoah, Iowa, in a battle with the Federal Radio Commission, is now building a 150,000 watt station at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. One of the main uses of the new transmitter, which will be the most powerful in operation on this continent, will be to promote the candidacy of Baker, who is running for Governor of Iowa on an independent ticket.

Baker is the second United States citizen to set up a broadcasting plant below the Rio Grande after having been denied use of the air in this country. The other was Dr. J. R. Brinkley, the "goat gland" specialist from Mifflord, Kans., who now operates XER at Villa Acuna, Mexico.

Following an announcement that Baker would enter the race to replace Dan Tucker as Governor of Iowa, Attorney General Fletcher's assistant, Gerald Blake, disclosed that Baker would be arrested if he returned to Iowa. This goes back to the old controversy in connection with closing down Baker's station.

Dr. Frank O'Hara, head of the department of economics, Catholic University, will give the first of his series of talks on the "Authenticity of the Gospels" this afternoon at 4:30 over Station WOL. This talk is given under the auspices of the Catholic Evidence Guild.

TROPICAL tunes by the Central American Marimba Band will be featured with Nat Shilkret's ensemble during the Kodak Hour (WMAL, 8 p. m.). Carlos Estrada has selected "The Swan," "Jealousy" and "Bunch of Roses." In addition, the concert orchestra, quartet and Thelma Kessler, soprano, will do selections from "Of Thee I Sing," "The Band Wagon" and conclude with "The Lullaby of the Leaves" and "Song of the Vagabonds."

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra will change networks tonight. His group of entertainers, including Mildred Bailey, Jack Fulton, the Rhythm Boys and a full 30-piece orchestra, will give their first broadcast in a new series over WRC at 9 o'clock. The Pontiac Chieftains now are heard over the WJZ network Saturday nights at 10:30 o'clock.

"Human Hearts," Hal Reid's old tear-jerker and heart-throber of the ten-twenty-thirty melodrama days, has been chosen as the vehicle on which N. B. C. employees and executives may try to pull themselves to radio dramatic fame. People around a broadcasting station, whether they ever have broadcast or not, have just as definite ideas about how it should be done as have scene shifters and curtain yankers in the theater. So the N. B. C. has decided to let them have a chance, and at 9 o'clock tonight, over the WJZ network, "Human Hearts" will go on with a cast including page boys, executives, stenographers, elevator operators and announcers.

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ, conducting an augmented jazz and symphonic orchestra, has arranged another program of unusual variety for WMAL listeners at 7:30 p. m. Among the compositions to be presented will be a little known work of Rudolph Friml, "Florida Moon and You," Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty Waltz," played by the orchestra; "In a Gypsy Camp," interpreted by the orchestra and voices; a medley of "Japanese Toyland" and "Japanese Sandman" chorus with piano accompaniment. The program will conclude with "Serenade," Drigo, and Yamekraw, by Johnson, a native negro melody.

Among the 200 or more poems which Lowell Patton, organist and director of the Song of Today program, has set to music, is one written by a policeman in Naples, Italy. While abroad some time ago, Patton was strolling late at night along a Neapolitan thoroughfare. A policeman accosted him and wanted to know why he was violating curfew. An explanation followed and finally the two became fast friends. Patton recently received the poem as a contribution to his radio programs.

THE tallest woman in radio is Ramona, pianist with Paul Whiteman's Band. The man with the longest name is Carl Bethmann, baritone. Full name is Charles Friedrich Eitel Darlington Ludwig von Bethmann Hollweg. He got that by being the descendant of a German baron. * * * Rudy Ballader, whose identity has been kept secret for many months, is C. Leonard Davis, well-known operatic and concert singer. * * * Burrus Williams, WMAL pianist, will vacation in Bermuda, beginning Monday. * * * Rocella Clare is drawing the heaviest fan mail at WMAL these days for her "Musical Readings," a sustaining feature. * * * Countess Olga Albani, soloist with the Cities Service hour tonight, was born in Barcelona, Spain.

BILLY JONES (reading newspaper): "Here's a scientist who says singing warms the blood." Ernie Hare: "He's right. I've heard singing that made my blood boil."

Stocks Again Lose Battle In Selling Flurry at Close

Prices Shrink One to Three Points; Buying Orders Curb Declines.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Stocks lacked the stamina to withstand a late selling flurry today, and closing prices of many leaders were 1 to 3 points net lower.

An early decline found the market fairly well fortified with buying orders, but all it could do, on the whole, was to erase losses before turning around. The market was fairly well fortified with buying orders, but all it could do, on the whole, was to erase losses before turning around.

Lausanne advices received here during trading hours spoke optimistically of a settlement. Wall street appeared to have concluded that the relief battle being waged between Congress and the White House presaged an extra engagement which might extend well into the summer, and possibility of such a season was freely mentioned in brokerage circles as a reason for the closing heaviness.

Two weeks ago early adjournment of the national legislature seemed probable.

Shoe Stocks Weakness. In stocks, conspicuous weakness cropped out in shoe stocks, which dropped 6 1/2 to 20 1/2, and finished near the low. The company's first half earnings were less than dividends and the White House present rate of payments and the shares fell swiftly. It was notable that at the close they were no longer commanding a premium in the loan market.

International Business Machines softened 6 points, while Drug, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Eastman, U. S. Steel preferred, Coca Cola and National Lead lost 2 or more.

American Telephone was an easy loser in the afternoon dip, breaking through its old low of 74 1/2 net. A market report said disconnections had increased in June. U. S. Steel, American Gas, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, DuPont, General and Union Pacific yielded a point or so. Sales totaled 784,421 shares.

Some News Encouragement. There were some encouraging symptoms in the day's news. Sugar futures firmed and several refiners raised their prices. Live-stock quotations were featured by an advance in cattle. The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that its wholesale price index had shown another small rise last week.

A notable aspect of the weekly Federal Reserve statement was the other substantial increase, $126,000,000 in currency in circulation. This was presumably in part due to the currency requirements for the July 4 holiday and may also have reflected increasing use of cash as result of the tax on checks.

The Reserve System virtually stopped its expansion of credit through purchases of United States Government securities and switched its credit expansion operations to rediscounting and purchases of foreign securities. Redemptions increased roughly $300,000,000, and acceptance bonds in the open market, $18,000,000. It was the first time since December that the Federal Reserve had not added substantially to its holdings of government securities.

Reserve Bank Adds $23,000,000 Credit

Outstanding for Week Is $2,377,000,000; Bill Holdings Decline.

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended July 6 was $2,377,000,000. This was an increase of $23,000,000 over the preceding week of $1,407,000,000 above the corresponding week in 1931.

On July 6 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,408,000,000, an increase of $62,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponds with an increase of $126,000,000 in money in circulation and a decrease of $18,000,000 in Treasury currency. It was offset in part by decreases of $71,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $60,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, etc., and an increase of $2,000,000 in monetary gold stock.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $60,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and increased $10,000,000 at Cleveland, $8,000,000 at Atlanta, $7,000,000 at San Francisco, and $30,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks.

Following is a statement of the combined reserves and liabilities in the twelve Federal Reserve Banks for the week ended July 6:

Gold and silver coin and bullion, $1,926,767,000. U. S. Treasury, $1,238,000,000. Gold held exclusively for Federal Reserve banks, $1,088,022,000. Gold held for other banks, $250,642,000. Gold and silver certificates, $239,784,000. Total reserves, $2,777,800,000. Nonmember cash, $76,836,000. Bills discounted, $190,828,000. Other bills discounted, $306,998,000. Total bills discounted, $497,826,000. Due from Federal Reserve banks, $1,088,022,000. Due from other banks, $1,088,022,000. Total bills and cash, $1,088,022,000. Total liabilities, $1,088,022,000. Total assets, $1,088,022,000.

Stocks. Selling flurry again weakened gains and prices slumped one to three points. Buying orders halted the pressure, with the result that losses were reduced somewhat at the close.

Bonds. Conflicting forces churned prices throughout the session, but both foreign and domestic loans reached higher ground. German issues shrank.

Curb. Mild liquidating clipped prior gains, and many issues closed irregularly lower. The turnover climbed to 100,000 shares.

Wheat. Lively late advance failed to avert losses in prices in wheat. The final gain was laid to reports of Eastern buying, but rumors of projected sales by the Farm Board outweighed the bullish influence.

Cotton. Recent cotton profits were clipped 6 1/2 per cent in a selling rush and by realizing. October contracts closed at 6.02, or 23 points under the last session. Liverpool reported speculative buying.

BOND MARKET LIKELY TO BE HEAVILY TRADED Call Money on Exchange Is Renewed at 2 Per Cent

Foreign and Domestic Issues Included in Advance in Spite of Losses.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Conflicting forces were at play in the bond market today, causing considerable churning up in prices, but averages closed higher for both foreign and domestic issues.

After an early advance to new high levels for the year, the German 5 1/2 per cent, the 7 1/2 per cent, and the 8 1/2 per cent German municipals were off 1 to 3 points. But other foreign governments retained their recent firmness. Belgian, Bulgarian, Finnish, French, Danish and British bonds registered gains ranging from fractions to 4 points. South American securities were also strong.

U. S. Government bonds were firm. Total transactions today were $12,771,000 par value of bonds against $11,961,000 yesterday.

Heavy Demands Deplete One-Cent Stamp Supply

(Associated Press.) There was a concerted run on the one-cent stamp yesterday over the country, with the situation so acute that Uncle Sam's supply of 3,000,000 to New York via airplane. The new 3-cent letter rate was responsible. The run is expected to continue until the Bureau of Engraving turns out enough 3-centers to supply the demand, now being filled mostly by one and one cent.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Call money renewed at 2 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange today, the lowest rate since October 18. Since early in January the quotation had been posted daily at 2 1/2 per cent. One year ago it was 1 1/2 per cent, but the rate stiffened after England dropped the gold standard last September.

In December it was 1 1/2 per cent, but the rate softened after England dropped the gold standard last September. There has been no increase, it was said, in the amount of money available, and the market was not particularly active. The rate was 1 1/2 per cent. Lowering of the call charge follows the recent reduction in the discount rate to 2 1/2 per cent.

Money brokers attached no particular significance to the change, pointing out that the former rate had been out of line with other short-term credit charges and that call funds outside the exchange had been available at 1 per cent for a considerable period.

LATE GRAIN ADVANCE FAILS TO AVOID LOSS

Reports of Eastern Buying Inspire Rise, but Wheat Wilts at Close.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Despite a lively late advance due to Eastern buying of wheat, the grain markets wilted at the last today under increased pressure to sell. Fear of liquidation by the Federal Farm Board was asserted in some quarters to have prompted the final outbreak of selling. Other observers said much of the selling was of a hedging character, that better weather prevailed for domestic harvest operations, with receipts at some Southwestern points increasing, and that spring wheat news was still predominantly bearish.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1/2 to 1/4 under yesterday's finish. Corn 1/4 to 1/2 down, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Reports indicating that the United States Grain Stabilization Corporation, sponsored by the Farm Board, might dispose of 35,000,000 bushels of cash wheat in the next two or three months, while the Nation's 1932 crop was being moved to market received a decidedly bearish construction from many traders.

The apparent likelihood, however, that liquidation of Government sponsored wheat supplies would come simultaneously with the new crop movement became the paramount unsettled influence as the day drew to an end. A sudden jump of 1/4 to 3/8 cents in wheat values at 11:30 a. m. was followed only by a brief stabilizing effect here.

Provisions were strong and made further gains, although hog market rallies were halted.

NATS SKID TO FIFTH AFTER DOUBLE LOSS TO TRIBE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE Nats bounced back into fifth place yesterday on the rebound from their double defeat by the Indians as the American League pennant race tightened up all along the line with the Tigers beating the Yankees and the Athletics splitting with the lowly White Sox.

Looking back, the Nats can realize that their last five defeats were offset by one-run margins, but those don't count except in horseshoe pitching.

After popping up, fouling out and tapping weakly to the infield, Dave Harris justified his presence in the line-up by slamming one of Russell's pitches into the right center bleachers for a home run, but a single in any one of the previous spots would have done more good.

Carl Reynolds watched the proceedings from a chair in the Nats' dugout, but with his jaw wired, he wasn't saying anything. Dick Moore observed that Reynolds wasn't wired for sound.

The Dickey-Reynolds case won't come up before the general American League meeting called by President Harridge for the simple reason that Harridge will prescribe Dickey's punishment in his own quiet way as soon as he feels that he has fully digested the umpire's report.

That Harridge's meeting was not called for the discussion of the fighting episode here last Monday, is attested by the fact that Clark Griffith received notice of the meeting exactly one week before Dickey led with his right.

During the past week the Yankees' ten and one-half game lead has dwindled to six and one-half games, but the most notable item of the week's play was that the Red Sox won three games in seven days.

Earl Averill is choking on his syndicated observation that the Washington pitchers are just a lot of "battering practice" hurlers. Averill's efforts in eight times at bat yesterday netted him one hit.

A glance at the box score which shows no hits for Joe Cronin in either game explains why the Nats made only five runs on seventeen hits.

Dave Harris' throw to home instead of to second, which put the winning Cleveland run in a position to score in the first game, was about as logical as the report that Kaiser Wilhelm was in the U. S. Secret Service, 1914-1918.

Senior Lefty Gomez, who sported eleven wins and one defeat for the Yankees a week ago, has taken it on the chin from the Nats and Tigers in his last two starts and at that rate will be known as a "spring pitcher."

The Yankees have now lost four of their last five games, and it is noted that they haven't won since Dickey punched himself out of the line-up.

Cooper Leads In Canadian Open Golf

Tours Long Course in 69, Equals Record at Ottawa.

Hagen, Late to Arrive at Unfamiliar Links, Shoots 70.

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 7 (A.P.).—"Lighthouse" Harry Cooper, of Chicago, toured the 6,770-yard layout of the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club in 69 strokes today to gain a one-stroke lead on the field in the opening round of the Canadian open golf championship.

The Chicagoan's sensational round clipped four strokes off par and equaled the course record set in 1893 by the club champion, J. J. McLaughlin, and never thereafter tied.

Hagen Supplies Drama.

But if Cooper led the field it was the defending champion, Walter Hagen, who supplied most of the drama. "The Hag," fresh from his unexpected victory in the Western open, did not arrive at the course until after 3 o'clock. He had never seen it before, but he started with an eagle three at the 480-yard first hole, turned in 34 and then came home in 34, two under par, for a 70 and a tie for second place with George Von Elm, of Detroit.

Von Elm, after an uninspired 37 going out, got his putting under control coming home, posted birdies at the twelfth, thirteenth and fifteenth, and wound up with a 33.

Locked in a four-way tie for fourth place with 72 were Otto Dutra, runner-up to Hagen in the Western Open; Tom Kerrigan, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and two former holders of the Canadian title, Les Dugal, of Agua Caliente, and Al Watrous, of Birmingham, Mich.

MacDonald Smith and Willy Cox, two veterans from the New York district, posted 73s to give the United States a clean sweep of the first nine places.

Six Are Tied With 74 Cards.

Horton Smith, Bobby Cruickshank and Johnny Farrell all had 74s, as did Jose Jurado, Argentine star, and the leading Canadian, Jack Little, of Ottawa, and Dave Spittal, of Toronto. Some of the other American players did not fare so well. Moe Dugal, Olin's brother, carded a 75; Phil Perkins, former British amateur champion, and Bill Burke, 76; Joe Kirkwood, 77, and Tom Creary, American P. G. A. champion, 79. Lex Robson, newly crowned Canadian P. G. A. titleholder, also had a 79.

Tomorrow the field will play eighteen more holes with all golfers who are twenty strokes from the leader becoming ineligible to participate in Saturday's final 36 holes.

Macks, White Sox Divide Twin Bill

Chicago Ends Earnshaw's Streak, 13-3; Beaten, 9-3, in Finale.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox started their marathon of three double-headers with three successive days by dividing honors today. The White Sox won the first game, 13 to 3, and the Mackmen the second, 9 to 3.

Chicago ended Earnshaw's winning streak of five straight by scoring five runs and driving him to cover in two innings in the opener. The Sox pounded three A's hurlers for 20 hits, 13 runs, 10 RBIs, and 10 errors, hitting for the circuit.

The Athletics did most of the slugging in the closing game, scoring in four successive innings, beginning in the fourth, and sending Earnshaw to the showers. Cranner hit in both games to run his streak to 20 in a row.

FIRST GAME.
Chicago, 13; White Sox, 3.
Earnshaw (2), 10 hits, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.
Chicago: Cranner, 2; Sullivan, 3; Kress, 1; 5 runs, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.
Philadelphia: Cranner, 2; Sullivan, 3; Kress, 1; 5 runs, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.

SECOND GAME.
Chicago, 9; White Sox, 3.
Earnshaw (2), 10 hits, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.
Chicago: Cranner, 2; Sullivan, 3; Kress, 1; 5 runs, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.
Philadelphia: Cranner, 2; Sullivan, 3; Kress, 1; 5 runs, 10 RBIs, 10 errors.

A CLEVELAND ERROR THAT DIDN'T HELP THE NATS' CAUSE

Joe Judge reached first safely on the above play in the opening game yesterday because First Baseman Eddie Morgan couldn't stretch far enough for Willie Kamm's wide throw. But the error was nullified a few moments later when Bluege missed the pitch on a hit-and-run play and Judge was an easy victim of Myatt's throw to second base. This was one of the few breaks of the day that went the Nats' way as they dropped a double-header and tumbled to the second division.

Giants Check Streak of Pirates

Beat League Leaders 4-3, Aided by Wild Throw of Meine.

PITTSBURGH, July 7 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates' winning streak was snapped by the New York Giants today when Heinie Meine tossed away Vergez's bunt in the eighth inning to score Manager Bill Terry with what proved the decisive run in a 4-to-3 Giant victory. The loss cut the Pittsburghers' lead over the Chicago Cubs to 2½ games.

7-1 Shot Wins Eased Up by 6 Lengths

Miss Brilliant Runs
Second, Technique
Third in Sprint.

In High Easy Victor
at Odds-on in Feature at Latonia.

ARLINGTON PARK III, July 7.
(A.P.)—Leading from start to finish, Timorous led home a band of good 2-year-old fillies in Genova Purse, five-and-one-half-furlong feature of the Arlington Park
program today.

Timorous, overlooked in the wagers,
was given a rousing ride by R.
Jones, and finished with a margin of six lengths eased up after Miss Brilliant.
Technique was third, Timorous fourth, and Maryland tracks went to the post favorite, but failed to get into the money.

Fisher Entry Runs
One-Two at Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., July 7 (A.P.)—The colours of Charles T. Fisher, who races under the nom de course of Dixiana, were quite conspicuous here this afternoon when in High and Prewar.
Genova Purse, five-and-one-half-fur-
long feature of the Arlington Park
program today.

The Dixiana entry was a prohibitive choice with the off-day crowd, but in High never gave his backers a moment of concern. Breaking on top, he led from the rise of the barrier to the wire and had something in reserve at the end. Prewar came from far back to take the place from the F. L. B. Stable's Ocean Flight, which tired after showing early speed.

The Dixiana entry paid $2.96 in the mutuels.

Runyon's Contribute
Empire Winner.

Empire City Race Track, July 7
(A.P.)—The much improved gelding Contribute, under a splendid ride by Silvio Coucel, scored a stirring victory in the Woodland Purse, a dash of about six furlongs, which attracted a speedy field here this afternoon. The son of Purchase just got up to beat the 30 to 1 shot, Capacity, on the wire. Cambel accidentally, carrying the odds of 100 to 1, finished second, and the Damon Runyon, ran the short six furlongs in 1:10 and paid 6 to 1.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 7.
Electra, at $5.02, saved me from a shutout on the winning end here today. But with my usual gang in the money and a substitute race on the card, it might have been worse. My only alibi is that the track reached that mud-clinging stage most feared by horsemen.
With the Weather Bureau reporting thunderstorms in this section, there's no assurance that the course will be better tomorrow.

If you don't like my choices here perhaps you may find paying propositions among these at other courses: Billy Baughn, Brown Pet, Trajectory, Sun Gros, Clear Knight, Catherine Fox.
BILL.

FIRST RACE—BALLY HAY is an improved youngster which I firmly believe has a good chance of upsetting this group. ST. CHRISTOPHER is of the consistent type and looks like the one to beat RED ROAMER surprised one and may do it again.
This is not much of a race as far as betting with a feeling of security is concerned.

SECOND RACE—FLYING HONEY
barged up third the other day sticking as the indicator. See this one leading WATCH HIM to the wire.
BUBBLE UP to take care of the others.

THIRD RACE—This race is crowded with many possibilities. Might do well picking them out of a hat.
Forced to name three, I'm going to PORTANTIA, FLYING HONEY and PORTCUBIC, the other named.

FOURTH RACE—REHOBOTH goes in this test apparently over his head.
Make no mistake, this one is a running piece of stuff right now. Trying to make him out a lot of tricks here. CATHOIC and PRINCE HOTSPUR will try to battle it out for the second money.

FIFTH RACE—Shame on DR.
FREELAND if he can't take these into camp. Has shown me that he is reaching up form YONKEL and BURNING UP appear the best of the others.

SIXTH RACE—PUNISHMENT, with the rail position, is going to be a hard one to beat. This veteran gelding has the speed to get in the first flight before the clubhouse turn and I expect him to stick just behind last place and come with a rush in the stretch. HIGH STORM and PING
COATES for place and show.

SEVENTH RACE—THE L.A.W., a hot and cold horse, appears to be a warm spot here. QUIBLER and UNCLE HENRY are fancied for the other pay-off stations.

EIGHTH RACE—This race is crowded

MURDER HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Admits Killing Policeman; 2 Wounded Men Improve; Suspect Indifferent.

Nicholas Long, 64, carpenter, whose shooting rampage Tuesday night resulted in the death of a policeman and the injury of several others, was held for grand jury action on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury after a lengthy inquest.

Sixteen witnesses were called, but the jury brought in a verdict immediately after the reading of a statement by Long in which he admitted the killing of Private Elmer A. Swanson, Ninth Precinct policeman, and the wounding of two others.

Long's statement was made at the Fourth Precinct station about an hour after the battle which terrorized the neighborhood adjacent to the elderly carpenter's home at 528 First street southeast. It was made in the presence of Assistant Superintendent of Police L. E. H. Edwards, Inspector T. R. Bean and Detective Sergeant Floyd Truett. Truett read the statement to the jury.

Long is illiterate.

It was developed at the inquest that Long is an illiterate. He marked each of the two sheets of the lengthy statement with a cross. Long said he had never been to school.

Long yesterday maintained his demeanor of nonregret at his action Tuesday night. On the witness stand he said, in answer to questions as to why he began his mad shooting:

"I did not want the police in my house." He added that he held no regrets.

Witnesses who testified were Hubert Edgar Long, 35, son of the alleged killer; Private B. F. Spittle and Watson Skalked, who were the first to arrive at the scene of the shooting; Fourth A. Flaherty, of the Fourth Precinct; Robert J. Barrett, suspended detective sergeant, who lives near the Long house; Michael P. Cannon, 530 First street southeast; and Detective Sergeant Truett, who witnessed Swanson's shooting.

Agitated Condition.

Long was in an agitated condition when brought to the Morgue, where the inquest was held. However, this had no effect on his attitude of indifference to the charges against him. When questioned concerning what led up to the night of the shooting, he snapped back that that was his "own business."

"I guess I'm guilty—let's have it over with," Long said yesterday to policemen at the Fourth Precinct station.

He was represented at the inquest by Attorney Lucien Van Doren. The Government's side was directed by John J. Sirica.

Funeral services for Swanson will be held at 1:45 p. m. today from the Sardo funeral parlor at 412 H street northeast. Burial will be in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Poulsen Is Improving.

A large group of policemen are expected to attend the services for Swanson. Assistant Superintendent L. E. H. Edwards yesterday sent out word to the precincts asking that as many men as possible should attend the rites. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of Lutheran Church, Fourth and E streets northwest, will conduct the services.

Swanson's wife yesterday received a check for $200 from the Police Association. The check officer left four children. The widow will receive $100 a month pension.

Private Arthur C. Poulsen, who was wounded, was reported to be improving yesterday at Emergency Hospital. Private D. L. Guest, of the Ninth Precinct station, who was overcome by fear gas while underneath the porch of Long's house, was discharged at Casualty Hospital yesterday.

Glassford Drops Retirement Pay

Will Continue to Receive $8,000 Annual Salary as Police Head.

Mr. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, yesterday informed the War Department that he elected to continue to receive his $8,000 annual stipend as police head, relinquishing the $4,430 retirement pay.

The decision of Glassford was made owing to provisions of the economy bill.

Glassford said his decision was contingent "upon the certainty of receiving my retired Army pay at any time that I may give up my District government position."

Harvey C. Pierce Retires From Federal Service

Harvey C. Pierce, auditor in the Internal Revenue Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was retired from Government service yesterday. He was presented with a purse of gold by fellow-workers at exercises in the office of Deputy Commissioner J. C. Wilmer.

Mr. Pierce entered the bureau in 1910. He had previously been employed in the Bureau of Census and Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Mrs. Pierce was present at the ceremonies yesterday.

Man Found Unconscious In Gas-Filled Kitchen

Found unconscious in the gas-filled kitchen of his home at 616 Irving street northwest, Elsworth A. Baruch, 48, was taken to Casualty Hospital late yesterday by the fire rescue squad.

Baruch was found by other members of his family, who said he had been in ill health for some time. His condition is not thought to be serious.

Thieves Take Pistol and Blackjack

A 32-caliber revolver and a number of blackjacks were among the loot, valued at $28, which was taken by thieves who broke into a store at 709 D street northwest, according to a report made to police yesterday. These instructors expect to teach more than 2,000 persons to swim during the week.

AID FUND DIRECTOR DISCUSSED BY BODY

Four Candidates for Post Are Interviewed by Committee.

The special committee named by the Board of Public Welfare to draft regulations and recommend a director for administration of the $350,000 District relief fund held a two- and a half hour session yesterday afternoon, but declined to reveal what was done or discussed until a report is made to the board.

Four candidates for the position of director of administration were interviewed, one of whom was Edwin S. Hoge, delegate of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who has been doing special work for the District Bicentennial Commission.

The committee is known to have encountered several difficult problems in connection with the administration of the relief fund, and because of the economy act it is expected the director will be called upon to sign an executive order to permit appointment of the director and his assistants.

Another meeting of the group will be held prior to next session of the welfare board Tuesday. This likewise will be closed. Sidney P. Tallafra, former Commissioner, is chairman of the committee. Other members are W. W. Millan, chairman of the welfare board; Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith; Mrs. Coralie F. Cook and Dr. H. J. Crosson.

Judge Studies Ruling On Gasoline Hucksters

Justice F. D. Letts, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday took under advisement his ruling on a petition by Attorney W. Gwynn Gardner, on behalf of gasoline hucksters, to have the attempt of the District Commissioners to drive the hucksters from the city's streets. Mr. Gardner contended the police regulation barring the gasoline vendors was discriminatory.

Corporation Counsel Vernon West, replying to the petition, said the Commissioners were acting within their proper discretionary powers when they passed the regulation. Both sides submitted briefs to Justice Letts in addition to their oral arguments.

Local Receivers Named For Globe-Wernicke Co.

Acting on a petition filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by J. T. Hatfield, of Gorington, Ky., Justice F. D. Letts appointed O. A. Wilkerson, Columbia, N. J., and Frank H. Kunkel, of Cincinnati, Ohio, local receivers for the Globe-Wernicke Co.

The petition asserted that the company had failed to pay an installment due on a debt of $1,272,000, of which Hatfield is the holder of notes aggregating $515,000. Hatfield said he presented his notes at a Cincinnati bank for payment and had been told that no provision had been made for their cashing.

Youth Is Arrested In Robbery of $63

Is Alleged to Have Attacked Elderly Clerk With Razor.

Cecil Holmes, 19, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeant Van Doren Hughes and Private H. A. Carpenter, attached to headquarters, when the youth is alleged to have attacked Dudley T. Hassan, 67-year-old Veterans' Bureau clerk, with a razor and robbed him of $63.

Hassan said the youth came to the front door of his home, at 3548 Quebec street northwest, just as he was about to retire early yesterday. Hassan recognized the youth as having been the one who had performed some odd jobs for him recently.

When the elderly clerk opened the door the boy entered the house and brandished a razor. Hassan drew the trousers hanging on a chair and fled. The money was in the trousers.

The detectives said they arrested Holmes at Ninth and H streets northwest. They recovered $63 from him. He has not been charged, but is being held on an investigation book.

Police Called As Boy Sticks Finger in Post

Fluid in Stomach Revealed at Autopsy on Body of Rail Mail Clerk.

Joe McHale, 7, had a thrilling adventure yesterday right in his own back yard. Excitement reigned for nearly 1½ hours with policemen and firemen.

Joe was playing with companions beneath the rear porch of his home, 3723 S street northwest. In some manner he caught his finger in the knothole of a small post, used as a support for the back porch.

He tried to extricate his finger, but found it stuck fast. All attempts of his companions to free him proved futile. Finally the post was torn from its fastenings, and Joe, with his friends carrying the post, went into the house to tell his mother what had happened.

Mrs. McHale placed a hurried call for the Rescue Squad. Before their arrival, however, Policeman Clarence Morgan, of the Seventh Precinct, reached the scene. He succeeded, after a long struggle, in cutting away part of the post and freeing Joe's finger.

3 RESIDENT GROUPS SCORE GAS PROJECT

Protests to Senate Body in Vain, However, Capper Tells Delegation.

A delegation from three Southeast citizens associations yesterday vainly petitioned the Senate District committee to have recalled from the Senate calendar a bill authorizing the Washington Gas Light Co. to construct a huge gas holder in the Southeast. The bill was introduced by Senator Arthur Capper today.

Chairman Arthur Capper told John Ritter, head of the delegation, his committee had taken final action on the bill. Even if the bill were recommended, a similar measure which has passed the House would still be on the calendar. It was pointed out.

Senator Capper advised the delegates, representing the Southeast Citizens Association, to renew their protest to the Public Utilities Commission, Manassas Senators L. B. Poole and R. Randolph Highlands, Wisconsin, prepared to block the bill when it comes up on the Senate calendar. They opposed it at District committee hearings.

2 Seriously Hurt When Cars Collide

Driver of Laundry Truck Reported Near Death; Other Badly Cut.

James Gorman, 43, of Cherry Chase, Md., and William R. Sanders, 53, of 4432 Faraday place northwest, were seriously injured yesterday evening when their machines collided at Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues northwest.

Both men were taken to Georgetown Hospital, where Sanders was said to be suffering from several fractured ribs, internal injuries and a possible fractured skull. Gorman sustained severe lacerations and bruises to his head and body.

Gorman's car, a small coupe, was thrown onto the sidewalk and was practically demolished, while the laundry truck was not so badly wrecked, police said. The case will be brought before corporation counsel for adjudgment.

District 1934 Estimates Must Be Made Quickly

District department heads were warned yesterday that they must make their 1934 estimates in the hands of Maj. D. J. Donovan, budget officer, by Saturday so that the newly organized economy committee can begin its study in time to submit a report to the Commissioners August 1.

There is little likelihood that many new projects will remain in the 1934 budget by the time it reaches Congress next winter. The estimates must go through the economy committee, the Committee on the Federal Budget, before they reach Capitol Hill.

Filling Station Attendant Robbed.

A watch and a ring valued at $28 were stolen from a filling station at 915 Rhode island avenue northeast while Victor H. Buell was waiting on a customer, he told police yesterday. Buell, who lives at 1115 Irving street northeast, is an attendant at the station.

Golf Club House Is Robbed

Thieves broke into the clubhouse of a practice golf course at 839 Eldensburg road northeast, early yesterday and escaped with equipment of undetermined value. Walter C. Propps, manager of the course, told police.

P. U. C. ACTS TO END CAB RENTAL SYSTEM

New Provision Will Require Agencies to Employ Own Drivers.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday took steps to end the rental taxicab system which it has opposed since a public hearing last fall through joint pressure of the new District license bill and the long-delayed order governing taxicab operation.

When applications are made for licenses to operate these rental cabs, the applicant will be required to sign a statement that he is the operating owner or his agent. This provision, it is said, will bar operators who rent cabs from an agency and will force these agencies to employ drivers.

The taxicab order states that "No motor vehicle shall be operated as a taxicab except by the proprietor thereof, or by a driver employed by the proprietor and responsible to the said proprietor."

Appeal Now Responsible.

Commission officials state that this provision has not been appealed within the 120 days allowed under the law and consequently can not now be contested in court. An appeal is pending, however, on the meter regulation, which is now held up by congressional action.

It is expected that the rental cab companies, the largest of which are the City and Bell Cab Corporations, will adopt a policy similar to that in Baltimore and will require drivers to turn in a specified amount of money daily to meet their jobs. The commission contends that the companies will be responsible for the safety of both passengers and drivers under the new arrangement, whereas heretofore the responsibility has rested on the driver.

Parley on Bus Tax.

William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, held a prolonged conference with the commission regarding the collection of the tax of eight mills a mile from all motor bus operators, both intrastate and interstate.

It is expected that this new license will add about $100,000 yearly to the District's revenue, chiefly because of the tax on interstate buses, which under the old law escaped local taxation. The mileage fee for intrastate operators supplants the old license fee of $12 a year and personal property tax.

As the mileage tax is collected in advance, it offers further problems in the cases of irregular service because of the uncertainty of the number of trips that may be taken in a year.

Whitaker's Hearing With Means Today

Grand Larceny Conspiracy Is Charged in Loss by Mrs. McLean.

Norman T. Whitaker and Gaston B. Means will be arraigned in the District Supreme Court today before Judge F. D. Letts on an indictment charging them with conspiring to commit grand larceny from Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean.

Both men are now in District Jail, Means following on a charge of charges of stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean, and Whitaker because of his inability to raise a $100,000 bond. Means has been sentenced to four years and is awaiting an appeal.

Following the arraignment, Whitaker will be given until fall to stand trial. Criminal courts will be sitting in the District Supreme Court this summer, thus forcing the trial over.

Man, 60, Struck by Car, Suffers Leg Fractures

Thomas Allen Miller, 66 years old, of 1104 Randolph street, Alexandria, driver of the automobile which struck and fatally injured 8. D. McChes, the night of July 1, was held for the action of the grand jury yesterday after a hearing in the Alexandria Police Court, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. He was released on bond of $1,000.

McChes was walking on what is known as the River road when he was struck, suffering a fracture of the skull and other injuries, and died a few hours after being taken to the Alexandria Hospital.

DAIRY PRICE PROBE IS ASKED IN SENATE

King Resolution Declares Cost of Milk and Other Products Too High.

A Senate District committee investigation into dairy prices in the District was asked yesterday in a resolution introduced by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah.

Claims were advanced that competition in the local dairy trade has been "stifled" and "the cost to the consumer of such commodities exceeds the cost to the producer by more than a fair margin of profit."

The District committee was called on to "investigate conditions with respect to the sale and distribution of milk, cream, ice cream or other dairy products within the District."

The inquiry would be "with a view to determining particularly whether any individual, partnership or corporation, whether residing in the District or elsewhere, is operating under any contract, combination in form of trust or otherwise, or is a party to any conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce in any such dairy products, or in any way monopolizing such trade within the District," the resolution stated.

It was referred to the Senate District committee, whose chairman, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, was said to be unfriendly to the resolution.

Senator King said it is his idea to conduct the investigation this summer, parallel to the committee's inquiry into the rent situation, already authorized by the Senate. He said he has received nearly 30 complaints from dairymen supporting the charges set out in the resolution.
